OUT TO BOOST THE TERRA MARIAE

TERRA MARIAE

What is the Terra Mariae? Literally it means land of Mary, but to get the purpose of the Terra Mariae we must go back to time of its conception. The classes of 1897 produced the first annual of the University of Maryland, using the title of "Bones, Molars and Briefs." The title was representative of the three professional schools, Medical, Dental and Law. Their purpose was to make a compilation of serious and humorous events and activities of their years at the institution. The staff endeavored to produce a publication that would in later years revive fond memories of the days spent at college. In 1905 "Terra Mariae" was adopted as the title of the Annual, but the spirit and purpose remained unchanged.

An editor-in-chief and business manager are elected every year from the senior classes to manage the publication of the Annual. This year the editor has been elected from the Law School and the Business Manager from the Pharmacy School. Next Year the Pharmacy School will elect the editor and the Dental School will elect the business manager. This privilege to elect these men passes every year from one school to another. But discard the erroneous idea that these schools with the aid of a staff are to alone produce the "Terra Mariae". If you have the opportunity of looking over a back number of either a volume of "Bones, Molars And Briefs" or the "Terra Mariae" you will find a statement by the staff appreciating the help that they received from the entire student body. The staff of the "Terra Mariae" for this year is not different from any of the preceding staffs. WE NEED YOUR HELP.

Probably one of the most entertaining sections of the "Terra Mariae" is the Feature section. We are entirely dependent on the student body for the contents of this section. Humorous poems, events in school life and jokes are necessary. The "Terra Mariae" would like to receive as much of this material as possible for publication. Hand in everything of this nature to your class editor.

The Read-Taylor Company is publishing the "Terra Mariae" this year and they are trying to put out the best Annual the University of Maryland has ever produced. However we must have good material to

SENIORS

The Terra Mariae is your book, a book that you should value and cherish more than any book that you own. The best days of your life are spent at college and in the dim distant future, the Terra Mariae will bring back more than memories, it will place before you the fondest recollections and associations of your college days.

Don't wait until the last minute to get in your write up and your picture. These two things are vitally important to your book. When your write up and your picture are in and you have paid your money, then you have done your part and are through. This isn't much to ask. Every fellow waiting until the last minute is just holding up the works. When you have done these things, we won't worry you any longer.

Don't forget that a 100% subscription in every school may mean a rebate at the end of the year. REMEMBER that the printers won't print the book for nothing. The total cost of the Terra Mariae is $10.00 which includes the senior photograph in cap and gown. Just because you have paid $2.00 for your photograph doesn't mean that you should stop paying. Pay the rest as soon as possible.

Don't forget that all cap and gown photos must be taken by January 25, 1929, and that there will be no pictures taken the last three weeks of December, so there isn't much time left.

publish and we are depending on the students and fraternities for this.

The fraternities should make themselves a vital factor in helping the staff to produce an Annual that is worthy of the University of Maryland. Get your members to have their photographs taken as soon as you sign for space. Give us typewritten copy and be certain that all names are spelled correctly. Send a representative to see the photographer about a design for your composite.

It is an impossible task for the staff alone to produce such a stupendous publication. The "Terra Mariae" is your book and the finished product will be what you make it.

The Staff.

SCHOOL SPIRIT

The University of Maryland will meet Johns Hopkins in their annual football game at the stadium on Thanksgiving. The game is close and exciting from start to finish every year regardless of the past performances of the two schools.

The team needs the backing of the student body to help it come through a winner. No doubt the entire body of students from College Park will be at the stadium to give the school yells and sing the college songs.

There is very little time given to scholastic functions at the professional schools at Baltimore. We haven't any campus and we see very little of each other during the school year. However the Baltimore Schools are a part of the University and the only possible opportunity that we have in the year to show our spirit for the University is at this game.

THE SCHOOL SMOKER

The student body of all the professional schools of University of Maryland is just emerging from the throes of a smoker, held at Lehman's Hall, October 8.

For those who were present, the affair was a great social success; but there were not enough of the students present to make it a truly representative college turnout.

Despite the deficiency in numbers, the smoker proved that "good things come in small packages" for such an enthusiastic gathering has seldom been seen or heard of at dear old Maryland. It sounded more like a football game than a mere social gathering.

The Dents came to the fore and showed all the rest of us what really good music there is lying latent in the school. Their Glee Club and instrumental endeavors went across big. There is a crying need for more of such splendid activities among the student body.

Department from arts, aesthetic, the audience was next treated to several wrestling matches which were "wows." The Ericson brothers were especially well received; and when John Ericson put on a "Joe Ghost" wrestling match, we did all but raise the roof. He was good!

By the time the speakers prepared to offer the usual venerated and time-worn advice, the fellows were at a high pitch of excitement. As a result the verbal efforts of all speakers were generously and loudly applauded.

Doctor Pearson, the President of the University, struck the keynote of the smoker in his speech when he pleaded for more and deeper school spirit, for therein lies the future success of our Alma Mater.

Those who have heard Dr. Sullivan lecture will welcome the good news. Any interested persons are cordially invited to attend the lecture at our home, at 2336 Eutaw Place, at 8.30 P. M. Louis J. Brandeis Law Club

In keeping with its purpose of combining in one organization the ideals of legal scholarship and social employment thru various activities, the Louis J. Brandeis Law Club is tendering an invitation dance to be held in the main Ballroom of the Southern Hotel on Sunday Evening, December 9th, 1928. The committee in charge of arrangements has engaged one of Baltimore's leading orchestras to furnish dance music for the evening. In order to stimulate a more enjoyable evening it has been decided that the usual custom of formal dress is to be done away with and the question of dress will be optional.

We feel certain in predicting an enjoyable evening for our guests, as it is our annual dance and the committee has endeavored to provide the organization and its friends with an affair that will be remembered for its real ability as to furnishing a good time.

THE MARYLAND CO-ED CLUB

A new organization or you may call it a club, has been formed at the Pharmacy school. It is as you perhaps already know the Maryland Co-Ed Club. This is really an original undertaking of the "wimmin" of the pharmacy school. Its officers are as follows:

Pres., Corinne Jacobs
Vice-Pres., Rita O'Conner
Sec., Mildred Shivers
Treas., Freda Kroopnick

The surprising and astonishing fact is that there has been 100% subscription.

OTHERS

*There are times when I grow weary
Of the life I chose to live;
Then comes the tho't of the sick ones
To them—who is going to give
The rays of hope and cheerfulness,
The tho't of the new coming day,
When health will be restored to them
And they'll journey upon their way?*

*No, not for worlds would I exchange
With him, who never thinks of others,
Shut in by four dark walls of gloom.
Perhaps he never sees a brother in distress,
Or, as it were, adrift at sea,
Waiting for a helping hand,
But as for me I'd rather be
Just where I am today,
Giving a cheerful smile with a kindly deed
To aid the suffering along Life's way.*

PHARMACY SENIOR DANCE

Held at the Emerson Hotel Ball Room, December 12, the sncopation being furnished by Jack Lederer's "Marylanders," this affair couldn't have been anything else but a success. All seniors were there with 'Belles' hanging on. The crowd couldn't have been any more sociable, the music couldn't have been any better, and the time couldn't have passed more pleasantly.

The guests of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bauer, to whom the dance was dedicated, in honor of their recent marriage.

ALUMNI BENEFIT

A Benefit was held at the Maryland Theater, Monday Evening, December 10, for the completion of the $2500 fund for the Pharmacy Library of the Alumni, which will be installed in the Library Room of the new building now being constructed. Eleven hundred dollars of this fund had already been contributed and the money raised by the Benefit now brings the fund to a total of $1500.

TO DENTAL SENIORS

The last lap! At least this is the hope and prayer of every senior that has "plugged" a class III, made a partial plate, and attempted an inlay bridge. After these past three years of struggle, it gives one a feeling of unrepressed horror at the thought of not being in with the gang on that final day. Well, no matter what the outcome, as Harry Bruskin and his pal Harbor quote: "It won't be long now."

We are fortunate in having Sam Shaffer as our President again, as Sam has directed our, shall I say, erratic crew through the troubled waters of the past two years as no other man could.

At this point, we might bring up the fact that the Christmas Holidays are just ahead. Think of the relief to the poor people of Baltimore. The clinic will be closed over the Holidays. Not that I care to praise the work of any one man in the class, but just as a matter of inspiration to the rest of us, I would like to state that "Pop" Gordan has all of his plate work off, in fact, he got his specimen plate the other day, while the waitress at the Recreation wasn't watching him.

We feel mighty proud that we are the last class to be graduated from the old Dental School. Such a memory will carry us down through posterity, as Maryland has at last gotten rid of its barn and its farmers.

MED SENIORS

In a recent series of elections, the Seniors chose Mr. Guiglia as the best dressed man in the class. We have been given to understand that H—T; S—R and M—X have sent their agents for a consultation with Mr. Guiglia.

More to the point, with the ladies, at any rate is the revelation—that Mr. Porterfield and Mr. Vann have been chosen as the handsomest Seniors. The work of Mr. Helms, Med. business manager, TERRA MARIAE, is proceeding to a rapid completion. Everyone is interested in the TERRA MARIAE Publication. Subscriptions are already almost 100 per cent. The Medical School is in back of the TERRA MARIAE and will do its darndest to make this the best year book ever put out at the U. of M.

As most of the TERRA MARIAE copy will be put in shape during the Christmas vacation it is absolutely necessary that the staff have all the senior writeups by Friday, December 21st. Please see that your write-up is in the hands of your school editor by this time.

TERRA MARIAE NEWS

Well, fellows, the Christmas Holidays are here and when we return from our vacation the New Year will have started to pour its sand upon the road of time. This means that half the school year is over, and that the TERRA MARIAE has to be assembled in the remaining half year. To start assembling the book all the write-ups and pictures have to be in. Your write-ups should be in before we leave for the Holidays, so that only leaves your photos, which, if they have not been taken already, must be taken by the 25th of January. There will positively be no cap and gown pictures taken after this date, so hurry up.

Fraternities please make some effort to have your contracts for space in by the 15th of January, so that we can start on your fraternity photos. Fraternity photos are $1.25 for a new sitting or $.75 for last year's picture. Men belonging to Frats and who are not seniors, please get in touch with your school representative or give your money to a senior and have him get you a photo slip.

Underclassmen please see to it that your class officers go up to the photographer's for their sittings. Also sign your space contract so we can make arrangements for your class group photograph.

The Staff of the TERRA MARIAE wishes to thank everyone for their cooperation thus far, and wishes everyone a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

PHARMACY SCHOOL SMOKER

One of the outstanding and most successful of the affairs held by the Pharmacy School, was the School Smoker at the Knights of Pythias' Hall on Thursday, December 6th. It was indeed as Dean DuMez said, a history making event, being the first affair of its kind ever held for Pharmacy students.

The students started the program themselves by offering cheers for the different Professors. Dean DuMez next introduced each member of the faculty separately, in order to make the Student Body better acquainted with their various Professors. After this the program proper started, which included singing, dancing, joke-telling, magic, and music played by the orchestra. After the entertainment refreshments were served to those who had not become sick from cigars.

No stone was left unturned by the committee, consisting of the student council and the Presidents of each class, to make the affair a success. A new-born fraternal spirit was developed between Freshman, Sophomore, Senior, and Faculty, and everyone enjoyed himself to the utmost. The Pharmacy Smoker will be looked forward to next year as the biggest affair of the season and no one will want to miss it.

FRAT NEWS

SIGMA EPSILON DELTA

The grand convention which was held in Philadelphia during the Thanksgiving recess surely was a great success both socially and clinically. Some of the most able men in the profession gave clinics in Exodontia, Oral Surgery, and Crown and Bridge work, respectively.

The Epsilon Chapter of Baltimore held its annual pledgee dance at the Exhibition Room, Emerson Hotel, on Thursday evening, December 13. Everyone had a good time.

ALPHA MU SIGMA

Alpha Mu Sigma, Mu Chapter, entertained the members of the Virginia Chapter over the Thanksgiving Holidays. This event was in accordance with a policy of stronger interchapter relationship established last year. In the near future a Mu Chapter dance in conjunction with the Lambda chapter of the University of Pennsylvania will be held. Elaborate plans are being made which will make this, the second annual affair, eclipse all previous efforts of the chapter and a number of fraters from the more distant chapters have signified their intention of attending. At a recent meeting a scholarship award was established to be presented to the member of the chapter showing the greatest scholastic effort of the year.

TAU ALPHA OMEGA

A joint initiation was held by the Beta Chapter of Johns Hopkins and the Gamma Chapter of the University of Maryland on Thanksgiving day. Following the initiation every member attended the football game at the Stadium. At 7 o'clock the rituals of the new members were held in the Exhibition Room of the Emerson Hotel, followed by a banquet and a formal dance. The affairs were well represented by members of each chapter.

The convention is now being planned. This project will take place in New York during the Christmas Holidays. Arrangements have been made whereby most of the Baltimore men will be able to attend.

KAPPA PSI

The Sigma Chapter of the Kappa Psi initiated eleven new members, Nov. 22nd and 23rd, making a total of 26 members in the present collegiate chapter. This is the largest membership ever known in this chapter.

Great progress has been made in the past year by the Sigma chapter and it is expected to continue so in the future.

IOTA LAMBDA PHI

The Alpha Chapter of the Iota Lambda Phi Fraternity has introduced into its roll Barney Robbin, S. Kimmel, David Brown, and S. Shavits of the Law School; Leon Land, Ely Blumberg, and Harold Goldin of the Pharmacy School, and Archie Cohen of the Medical School.

Albert Moss and Samuel H. Feldstein were the principal speakers at the installation banquet and dance of the Delta Chapter in New York City on December 2, 1928.

The Iota Lambda Phi will hold its annual convention in the city of Baltimore this year during the Christmas Holidays. The committee in charge is laying elaborate plans for this annual affair and among other activities, a formal banquet and dance will be held at the Hotel Joyce.

ALPHA ZETA OMEGA

The A. Z. O. Fraternity, Kappa Chapter of the Pharmacy School, is again active socially and fraternally. The mid-year convention will be held in Philadelphia on December 30, 1928. Delegates will be appointed at the next meeting at the Southern Hotel.

The dance committee has been particularly active, having already brought to a happy close one successful dance, and having made all arrangements for an all-night New Year's Affair.

Besides having attended to pleasures, the fraters have also been working with the fraternity in mind. A number of promising candidates have been chosen and given pledge pins, and sometime during the coming year they will be put thru the ritual necessary to their becoming full fledged fraters.

PHI ALPHA

With the Thanksgiving Formal, House-dances, and houseparties over for the present year, the Phi Alpha Fraternity, with its Beta Chapter at the University of Maryland, is anxiously awaiting December 30-31, 1928, and January 1, 1929, when it will hold its 14th Annual Convention at Norfolk, Va.

Elaborate plans have been made to entertain the visiting fraters. Among the activities will be two formal dances, a banquet, and special entertainment for the ladies.

This Annual Conclave will mean the get-together of the fraters of thirty-two Chapters, including the recent addition to the roll of Alpha Alpha Chapter at the University of West Virginia.

THE PERFECT TEST

The professor, a noted botanist, had given instructions that a dish of mushrooms he had gathered himself were to be cooked and given to his wife at supper time.

At breakfast on the following morning the professor greeted his wife anxiously.

"Sleep well, my dear?" he asked.

"Splendidly."

"You didn't feel ill at all during the night? No pains or anything like that?"

"Of course not, dear."

The professor gave a shrill cheer.

"Hurrah!" he cried. "I've discovered yet another species of mushroom that isn't poisonous."—Answers.

Gerald (Snitz) Snyder, star of the Yale game, has placed on the Associated Press' "All Southern" eleven as fullback. Snitz, also placed on the third team of the "All American," by virtue of his fine playing in the Connecticut game. Miss Antonette Wolf, one of the staff of the Social Service Department of the University Hospital, has resigned her position, to enter a broader field of activity in Washington. Miss Wolf has a degree in law from the London Law School, has studied at the Sorbonne in Paris, and is reading for her Master's degree in Law at a Washington, D. C., University.

MED SOPHS

The Sophomores are busy regaling themselves in the pharmacological and physiological laboratories. We have heard rumors that the new assistant in the Department of Physiology—Miss Hilda Friedman, formerly of Yale and Goucher—has been rushed in her attempt to help all of the boys all of the time. A word to the wise—remember the story of the goose and the golden eggs—don't take advantage of a lady.

MED FRESHMEN

The Freshman class is quite large this year, nevertheless the 136 men who have been selected as our future Oslers and Halstedes have exhibited a class spirit and cooperation that is especially noteworthy. The President, Mr. F. M. Hammell, says that the good fellowship and rapidity of response to any requests made of the class, have been all that could be expected of any Freshman class.

It has always been a sign of the times to note the gradual increase of degree men in any medical school. In the Freshman class we have the greatest number of degree men yet recorded. There are more Phi Beta Kappa men, Ph.D. and Master Degree men than in any of the preceding classes.

We are also given to understand that the Freshman group has not been fortunate enough to secure any great number of women students. However, the quantity has been made up by the quality of good fellowship exhibited by the four female physicians to be. They—the secret's out—have brought fudge to the anatomical lab. and passed it around.

A great deal is expected from this class and may it reach the high pinnacles of success attained by the present Seniors. Selah!

CHEMISTRY PLAY

A chemistry play is going to be held at The Western High School Auditorium, Thursday night, April 4. It is being given by the students of the Pharmacy School and is one of the first affairs of its kind ever to be held in this city. There will be talks on Radium and Liquid Air, accompanied by demonstrations, magic chemical tricks, and several one-act sketches. The play is being given free and everyone is cordially invited. It will be intellectual as well as entertaining. Come one, come all.

DENT STUDENTS

We have now launched upon that final lap where we must show our superiority over our courses or drop by the wayside. The mid-year examinations took a heavy toll in the underclasses, but the upperclassmen gave evidence of real ability by making a marked improvement over previous classes.

It is a far cry back to the time when over 20% of the class failed and were requested to leave, but this year the Senior Dental Class proved that nothing is impossible if one will just make the effort.

It is not necessary to call to the attention of our fellow students that the new building is gradually taking on the appearance of the impressive structure that is to be. The Senior class looks across Greene Street with many an envious eye, their only bit of satisfaction lies in a little piece of tradition; they are to be the last class graduated from the old school. The Junior class, however, have much to look forward to, for they will be the first class to graduate from the new building, and will get the benefit of the new equipments and modern improvements.

As the end draws near, there comes that full satisfaction to those who have given their best. Their reward is not far ahead now, and we hope that theirs is the best of luck. And as Larry Bruskin would put it, "I am now going home to Mother."

PHARMACY STUDENTS

Now that the Holiday for Washington's Birthday is over, it is going to be a steady grind until the Easter Holidays. The seniors are still making suppositories, the sops still studying Materia Medica, and the freshmen still wondering what is in their unknown chemical solution. But cheer up, fellows, it won't be long now before it will be all over for another year, and for some it will be over forever.

The seniors look at the new building with envious eyes; however, they have one consolation in the fact that they will be the last class to graduate from the old school. The sops have something to look forward to in the fact that they will be the first to graduate from the new building, and the freshmen should rejoice in the fact that they will have all new, modern equipment to use.

TERRA MARIAE NEWS

The name "Vanguard" means a fore-runner or advanced guard. This paper, therefore, is a fore-runner of the Terra Mariae, its sole purpose being to inform everyone as to just what the Staff is doing and how the book is progressing. So just keep on reading and gather in the latest facts about your year-book.

There are just about three months left before June. It takes the publishers at least six weeks to print the book, so that leaves only about a month and a half to get everything assembled and have the dummy copy ready for the press. One can readily see from this that the staff can not wait for pictures or write-ups any longer. Hence, a definite date of March 4 has been set as the positively final date for all pictures—no matter what kind. If all pictures are not taken by then, they will not be taken. Also if anyone has not returned his proofs by then, the staff will select one for him and put it in the book. So for your own benefit, be sure that your pictures are all taken by March 4. This applies especially to fraternities.

Another thing that the Vanguard would like to remind you of is that each school has several pages in the book where they can put snapshots taken in or around the school, jokes, poems, wisecracks about teachers, sketches or what you will. So, if anyone has any material that he would like to go into the book, please turn it in as soon as possible.

Another important thing is that a commission of 10% will be given to anyone on all Ads gotten for the Terra Mariae. This is worth considering, as this may be a means for some fellows to help pay for their books. A full-page Ad, for instance, costs $40 and a 10% commission would net $4. This offer is open to anyone and is worth going after. For further particulars about the prices of Ads see members of the staff.

As a final word, to the benefit of those who seem to have forgotten, the price of the Terra Mariae is still $10. Please pay up as soon as possible.

LET'S STOP SUCH STUFF

The Librarians, Mrs. Ruth L. Briscoe and Mr. Samuel H. Feldstein, have found in many of the new Reporter volumes and several of our old but valuable books numbers of pages wilfully torn or cut out. The University of Maryland has recently gone to a great expense in placing in the Library the entire Reporter system and many new textbooks which have been very advantageous to the students in their work.

That such a condition should exist is very deplorable. It is a sad state of affairs and things have reached a pretty pass when men who are supposed to have average, if not more than average intelligence, stoop to such inconsiderate conduct. Last year when we were woefully lacking in search books and Reporter volumes the books that we now have would have seemed invaluable. Now that we have these advantages the students seem to have forgotten, or the vandals may be students who have never known the arduous struggles which we had in trying to find decisions which were necessary.

We would advise every student in the University to cast his vigilant eye about in an effort to find the perpetrators of these outrages.

CURRENT BROADCASTINGS

Our president, Dr. Raymond A. Pearson, was a patient for the past two months at the University Hospital. We are very happy to learn that he is now down in Florida recuperating and so we expect him back with us soon.

Our smiling "never say die" Registrar, W. M. Hillegeist, is a daily visitor to the Library, where he may be seen poring over the legal archives of Maryland. Mr. Hillegeist is busily engaged in the compilation of the laws of Maryland pertaining to the University.

Drs. H. Boyd Wylie, Nathan Winslow and G. Carroll Lockard comprise the active Library Committee which is now planning ways and means to bring the Medical Library up to a more modern practical basis as far as the acquirement of the latest medical textbooks and periodicals are concerned. They understand the limitations of the Library and we expect their labors will result in the expansion of its usefulness.

Governor Ritchie in his message to the General Assembly of Maryland pointed out for the edification of our law makers, "that the School of Pharmacy in Baltimore is the only institution in the State educating men and women in this essential line; that the School of Dentistry is the oldest dental school in the world, the only school of its kind in Maryland, and the only one giving clinical service to thousands of children and adults who otherwise might not get this necessary attention; that the School of Medicine is the only medical school in the State to which the counties of Maryland can look in the future to supply their need of doctors; that the School of Law has long occupied a notable position in the professional life of the State; and that the University Hospital is located in a section of Baltimore City where hospital facilities are most essential." You tell 'em, Al.

Among other recommendations of the Governor, we are glad to learn that he advises the construction of a new building for the Law School. We certainly can use one. The law course, you know, has been extended to four years, and more classrooms are needed. In addition to that, it is the aim of the faculty that the school in the very near future receive a Class A rating, and this is dependent, among other things, upon the existence of a separate building which will contain the school's Law Library.

An appropriation of $100,000 for equipment for the Medical, Dental and Pharmacy schools was recommended to the legislature. This means that about $75,000 of equipment is to go into the new Pharmaceutical and Dental Building which you now see in the course of construction at the northwest corner of Lombard and Greene Streets.

Most of the student body is not familiar with the names of John Tucker, Acting Comptroller, and his two aides, Messrs. Fitzpatrick and Ayres, but we all meet them personally twice each year—it's checks appeal.

Rosie O'Grady, attractive secretary in the Hospital Social Service Department, is proudly exhibiting one of them air diamonds—on her left hand. Lucky boy, say we.

If we held such commonplace things as popularity contests, we certainly would not want to omit the name of Elsie Aaronson, queen of the Hospital History Room, whom we might name Miss Personality. The rumor about her and that North Carolina tobacco magnate isn't so. That's just more Bull Durham.

We noticed the birth of another organization lately among our fair co-eds. We might next expect some organization among the departmental secretaries, perhaps, Mrs. Anderton, Miss Hogan, Miss Gerber, Miss Berger, Miss Belle, Miss Todd, Miss Lawrence, Miss Hartge, Miss Wolf, and the new caretaker of Plaza 1100, would undoubtedly make a good nucleus for such a group.

NURSES

The Nurses of the Training School were very fortunate and indeed honored to have listened to an interesting lecture in the Medical Amphitheatre by Clara D. Noyes, Director of Nursing of American Red Cross. Miss Noyes spoke of the advantage of the Red Cross and requirements for the Red Cross Nurse. The lecture was well attended and the Nurses feel very grateful to Miss Noyes for her interest shown in the University of Maryland.

After the lecture, refreshments were served in the Nurses Home, Miss Noyes being honorary guest.

The Nurses wish to thank the Alumni for bringing Miss Noyes to the School.

Why do they call that Professor a Doctor?

Because in his first lecture he cured half the class of insomnia.

TERRA MARIAE WILL BE OUT MAY 20

FAREWELL

The seniors are making preparations to turn into the homestretch of their scholastic activities. 'Ere he knows, the "finals" will be upon him. After that—what? The beginning of a new chapter in his life.

However, before considering his future, let him look back on the years spent at school. Will he miss the "ole campus"? Will he miss the lectures, "labs," etc.—will he? It is quite certain he will look back towards the old buildings with a bit of regret, some respect, and a great deal of reverence as he recalls pleasant experiences. In all probability he will be jealous (shall we say?) of those he is leaving behind to carry on the ideals left behind by him.

As the senior glances through the best issue of the "Terra Mariae" published and ever to be published, it is quite fair to say that the nurse will recall Miss Creighton, the pharmacist the old "Church Building," the dentist "ole" Gorgas Hall, the doctor the evil smelling "dissecting room," and the lawyer the "bit antiquated" Davidge Hall—and each will recall pleasant memories with a far-away look in his eyes.

All the seniors will, no doubt, bid farewell to the instructors, "labs," lecture halls, and library as well as the "campus" somewhat hesitatingly, knowing that they had the best time of their lives.

Now, coming back to the senior's future. Undoubtedly he will find the world somewhat cold and hard. Perhaps things will be hard at first but the senior has the better part of his life before him, provided he works hard enough. If things are against him—let him buck up, grin—hitch up his pants and pile in. In case he needs advice there is always a way out—let him return to see his instructors and they will be only too glad to lend a helping hand.

Listen, Senior—no matter where you are

RESEARCH ON SLEEPING SICKNESS

How many of you fully realize the extent and nature of the task of preparing compounds useful in the elimination of such a disease as trypanosomiasis (sleeping sickness)?

In order to give the reader jut a slight insight in respect to this problem of synthesizing trypanocides, we will give a few facts concerning sleeping sickness. This disease is confined chiefly, if not wholly, to the equatorial region of Africa. So dreadful is it that if energetic measures had not been taken the population would have been almost decimated.

Since the discovery of the first pathogenic trypanosome in 1881 by Evans, four series of trypanocidal agents have been developed: (1) dye derivatives, (2) arsenicals (3), antimonials and (4) "205-Bayer" type of compound (this type of compound is a very complex molecule, having a molecular weight of over 1400).

Now as to the actual synthesis and work involved in the preparation of a trypanocidal medicament, we will consider the preparation of a compound of the nature of Bayer-205 type. A compound of the Bayer-205 type offers great possibilities as to isomers, substituents of varying classes, etc. The preparation and purification of just one of these compounds will require as much as a week or more. After this step comes the test for therapeutic activity of the compound against the disease produced experimentally on laboratory animals. This routine is carried out until the investigators strike a compound that shows promise on laboratory animals. This compound may be the first or tenth or hundredth or even the thousandth one. Then after having obtained this compound that shows promise, the investigators make an expedition into the heart of the country in which the pestilence rages. Here, the medicament is tried on the persons infected with the disease. Suppose the medicament fails to act or it is too toxic to man, even though experiments on laboratory animals indicated otherwise, is the research worker stopped or downhearted? No, he is just delayed and considers the failure of the medicament as a part of his work. He then returns to his

TERRA MARIAE NEWS

Well, fellows, when you read this, there will only be a few more weeks before the scholastic year is over and this also means only a few more weeks before the yearbook, the "Terra Mariae," will be in your hands. The first copies will be out by May 20, so it won't be long now. There is no doubt that this year's book is going to be the best ever published at this school. The book will have close to 500 pages and is probably the largest book ever assembled at this school.

Despite the fact that the book is almost ready to be distributed, there are still quite a few fellows who haven't paid in full. This is quite serious at a time like this, and if the money isn't all paid in full pretty soon, the names of those who haven't paid will be turned over to the Deans of the various schools and the fellow will be kept from graduating until they have paid. Don't forget you signed a contract and you are held liable. We hope these measures will not have to be resorted to, so as a final plea, finish paying for the "Terra Mariae" now and get it off your mind.

IT SHOULD BE DONE

The song is ended, but the melody lingers on. So, also, this appearance marks the end of the VANGUARD, but there is a thought that lingers on. The staff of the "Terra Mariae," publishers of this paper, wish to present to the undergraduate student body in this farewell issue this suggestion: Inasmuch as this paper has been unquestionably in the opinion of the student body a success, and has filled a need in the life about this institution, we suggest that the underclassmen continue the VANGUARD as a separate publication, controlled by duly represented students from each school. This is a thought worth considering and there is no reason why the Baltimore Schools cannot have a current newspaper. Think this over.

laboratories and begins anew. Suppose, on the other hand, the medicament proves favorable in the trials on human beings—again the investigator returns to his laboratories but this time to supervise the preparation of the compound on a large scale. Does his worry stop here—perhaps—but experience shows that problems are met with and problems of such a nature that must be coped with until the barrier has been removed. The chief obstacle encountered concerns the purity and standardization of the medicament. This difficulty is mastered only by the greatest expense on the part of the financial supporter of the research worker. After this obstacle has been cleared the research worker leaves the production of the medicament in capable hands and turns his attention to other problems.

It is doubtful indeed, kind reader, whether you can give enough credit to the research worker for his flaming spirit, unlimited patience, painstaking effort and his sense of duty to mankind.

The purpose of the above article is to give the reader just an inking (for that's all it is) in reference to the preparation of a medicament that is useful in wiping out human pestilences.

CURRENT BROADCASTINGS

The hearty cheerio of our much-liked President is again heard about the departments of the Baltimore Schools. We are glad Dr. Pearson has returned to us in the best of health.

At last the construction work on the northwest corner is taking shape and substance. We really believe that the Pharmacy and Dental Students will enter next fall into a beautiful up-to-date building with the most modern class rooms and laboratories, of which they should be justly proud.

The Medical Alumni Association has undertaken to serve the University in grand style. It has bought out Himelfarb's property at 519 W. Lombard Street, directly opposite the Medical School, and converted the property into a high grade book shop, restaurant, cafeteria and alumni offices. We wish them luck in their ambitious undertakings.

The idea about establishing the VANGUARD as a regular weekly or monthly newspaper at the Baltimore Schools, should not die of solitary confinement. Undergraduates—think about it—and act.

Rumor has it that the senior meds plan to celebrate after the "news" is out, by having a boat-ride. "Whoopee!"

"Tempus fugit," the Latins say. Believe it or not, the 1929 edition of the "Terra Mariae" will very shortly be out. The dreaded final exams will be upon us. The reports, glad and sad, will subsequently follow, then banquets, dances, and finally the Commencement and then all scholastic turmoil forgotten in the enjoyment of summer vacation.

There's a feeling of sadness mingled with joy,

We must sing our goodbye song at last. Time is so fleeting, there is no repeating, Soon 'twill all be a dream of the past.

Starting, parting from the school we love so dear,

Leaving, grieving, for the loss of dear friends here,

Memories of happy days, spent at U. of M.—

Alma Mater, we must say goodbye, We must say goodbye.

A SPORTING EVENT

Down in Arkansas a man was tried for assault and battery with intent to kill. The state produced as evidence the weapons used—a rail, a gun, a saw, and a rifle. After being out several hours the jury gave their verdict: "We, the jury, would have given a dollar to see the fight."

MEDICAL SCHOOL HOLDS CLINICS

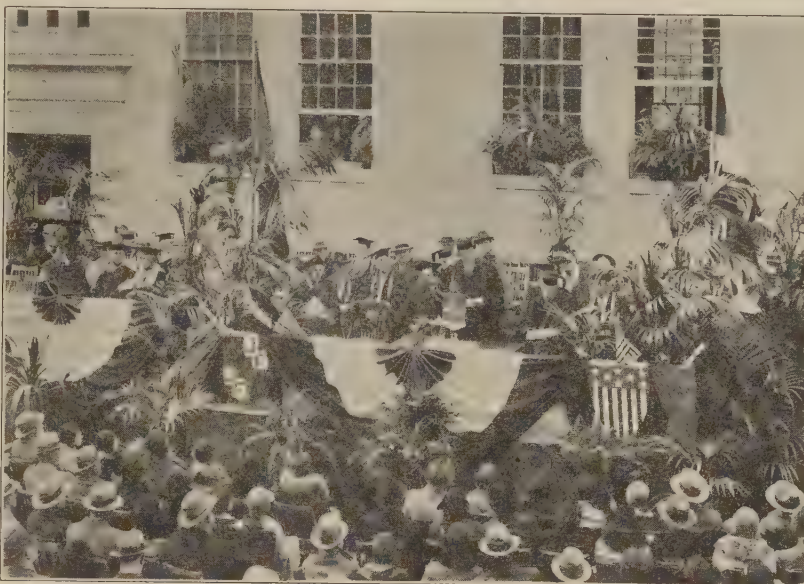

The Thursday afternoon clinics tendered by the Medical School have always been significant events. The men who have presented these clinics stand out pre-eminently in contemporary medical history. The committee has chosen most wisely. The branches of medicine represented are varied with each man standing at the pinnacle of his respective science.

Dr. Lewellys F. Barker presented the first two clinics. He received an enthusiastic welcome by large audiences. Originally an instructor in anatomy, Dr. Barker then mastered Neurology. His book on the subject is an epic in clinical neurology. On the resignation of Sir William Osler from his post as Professor of Medicine at the Johns Hopkins University, he was appointed to the position. Now, as an Internist, he stands out among the men of that field.

His first clinic on Mucous Colopathy was exceedingly interesting. There are few men who can present such a subject in which so little is known concerning the etiology and treatment and yet make of it such a simple, understandable clinical entity with such a rational course of treatment. His differential diagnosis covered numerous simulating conditions which stimulated the listener to much deep thinking.

On the following Thursday he presented a case of true Sciatica, a condition rarely seen in its true form. Here, too, he made which is considered a very easily recognized condition, one of absorbing interest. The differential diagnosis played the big part in this clinic.

Dr. J. Shelton Horsely, the eminent surgeon from Richmond, gave the next clinic. His subject, "Peptic Ulcer," was well given and received by an enthusiastic audience. Dr. Horsely is well known for his surgery of the stomach. His modifications of numerous classical operations have been widely accepted. Known as a modifier of many operations, he also modified his talk. Instead of dealing with the technical side of gastric surgery, he presented a general discussion of the subject which was comprehensive and interesting to both surgeon and medical man.

The dedication of the new building of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery, Dental School of the University of Maryland, took place on October 5, 1929. Dr. Raymond A. Pearson is shown delivering an address. This building will be occupied also by the School of Pharmacy, who will conduct similar dedication ceremonies during the early part of May.

"MED" SENIORS OFF WITH FLYING START

The Seniors have gotten off with a flying start. It is the last lap, one might say, and the final spurt is at hand. The class returned for the fourth year, one hundred per cent seriousminded, mature and thoughtful men engaged in work, for enthusiasm like swift-running currents ebbed and flowed; flowed and ebbed. In the buoyancy of this fresh start we have gotten our stride.

The class organization has remained intact. There was no change in administration. Benfer was elected for the fourth consecutive year to the office of President; I. Miller was again chosen Vice-President; Leo Ginsberg retains his seat on the Exchange of duties and customs; and Miss Esther Kuhn continues to write notes for the class.

All things presage a full, challenging, well-rounded and, we trust, a successful year.

The schedule for future clinics is as follows:

Nov. 21, Dr. Charles P. Austrian, Medical Clinic.

Dec. 5, Dr. J. M. T. Finney, Surgical Clinic.

Dec. 12, Dr. Thomas R. Boggs, Medical Clinic.

Dec. 19, Dr. Harold L. Amoss, Medical Clinic.

SENIOR PHARMACISTS TO HOLD DANCE TONIGHT

Date—Wednesday, November 27.

Time—9 till 1.

Place—Emerson Hotel.

Music—Silver Crescent Orch.

Dress—Formal.

This affair promises to be the dance of the season. Among those who will be present as guests are the members of the Maryland State Board of Examiners and their wives, members of the faculty, the Alumni Association, former Dean Kelly, and Dr. David Culbreth.

The program will be a homogeneous mixture of foxtrots, waltzes, blues and what not. There may or may not be punch, and there may or may not be entertainment, but the committee has promised us a good time, and when a committee promises, well—

SENIOR LAW CLASS ELECTS OFFICERS

At a recent meeting of the Senior Class the following officers were elected. Harry W. Allers, President; H. Joseph Howard, Vice-President; Fanny Coplan, Secretary; Marion Kue-the, Treasurer, and Monsillini Stevens, Sergeant at Arms. Arthur Griffith was appointed as business manager of the Terra Marie and W. Hamilton Whiteford as Evening Law School Editor.

THOUSANDS WILL WITNESS BIG TILT AT 33RD ST. STADIUM

MARYLAND ELEVEN SEEMS TO HAVE EDGE

Tomorrow is the big day. Thousands of football enthusiasts are already visualizing the jammed stadium, the stands flaunting multi-colored pennants as cheer upon cheer resounds through the big bowl.

Thanksgiving and Maryland-Hopkins are synonymous. From almost time immemorial, the two universities have on this day sent forth their football teams to represent them. Time and time again these representatives have battled gloriously for their respective Alma Mater. Only once in a long year does this happen. And now we are thrilled by the nearness of the event. Tomorrow is the day.

The clash tomorrow promises to be a veritable thriller. Both teams have thus far done splendid work on the gridiron.

The "Terrapins," a little over a week ago, proved their worth. Coming from behind to tie a team which had earned a place at the top of the heap in Eastern football; presenting a powerful versatile attack which, falling short of its objective, accomplished more than the vaunted offensives of Army and Dartmouth; and vindicating gloriously a season of set-backs and disappointments, the Black and Gold jerseyed grid-ders accomplished what no sports writer in the country conceded them a chance of doing—tied Yale, 13-13 in the Blue Fortress, the Bowl, last Saturday.

Although the Hopkins' gridders have not chalked up many complete victories this season, Ray Van Orman has developed a team which, without the "bad breaks," would have met with much more success.

The Jays give promise of a very keen and well played contest. And, what they lack in experience, they will surely make up for in grit and determination.

"Moon" Evans, star of the Yale-Maryland game, is expected to do great work for the Black and Orange.

THE TERRA MARIAE

There is not a more noteworthy enterprise than the publication of this annual at the University of Maryland. The staff has been untiring in its efforts in planning a book which will be received enthusiastically by the student body. They deserve every bit of support you can afford to give them, and that means, have your photographs taken early, pay up on contracts, contribute material and snapshots. The 1930 book will contain the best printing craftsmanship and art that money can obtain. In addition, there will be a theme throughout the book, making it more interesting and that much more cherishable. So, Seniors, apply yourselves to this worthy task and make the "1930 Terra Mariae" a bigger and greater book.

OUT OF THE TRENCHES BY CHRISTMAS

A vision is realized. The promised dental school has risen in its magnificence above the dirt and traffic of Green and Lombard Sts. No one can deny that this building with its equipment is the finest structure of its kind in the country, probably in the universe. Nor can one deny that the powers in charge have worked assiduously in order that the edifice might be available for tenancy as soon as possible. Yet, the time required for the completion of the building was woefully under-estimated.

The students have worked under most distressing conditions over a period of two months and although the authorities have promised relief, their promises have fallen short. Day by day the students have been informed that the following day would see a general moving day and the student would wake to find himself in "Utopia."

This article is not written in the spirit of a malcontent, nor in the spirit of criticism of the untiring efforts of those in charge of the work, but with the idea that the student is being chided into the idea or belief that he can afford to neglect his work until the new building is ready and then catch up with his back work. The student body as a whole, is taking the year in anything but a serious matter and as a result they are the losers.

With the abundance of equipment in the new building, it seems as though the excessive stripping of the old building was rather premature. The junior class has been thrown out of the clinic and into the streets of Baltimore. A condition which is never a happy one. It has produced a rather nonchalant air amongst this class whenever their class work is considered and we venture to say that the class as a whole will not be settled to their work for quite a while after the new building and infirmary are opened.

It is our sincere desire that a spirit of co-operation be realized within the next few weeks so that the school may again assume its regular routine. This idea may be materialized by impressing the student to accomplish more than normally and by stimulating a greater amount of interest in his work.

PRE-COLLEGIATE REQUIREMENTS

For the first time in the history of the Law School, all four years of the evening division are now regulated by the pre-collegiate requirements, restricting as they do, the study of law to those who have had a certain amount of college preparatory work, have for their purpose the raising of the intellectual and moral level of the Bar in general and its individual members in particular. Not only has the profession become over-crowded of late, but it is also an unfortunate fact that many of its members have not the basic educational factors that are necessary for an intelligent and proper presentation of a case. The pre-collegiate requirements rule seeks to remedy this situation, and it is to the credit of the University of Maryland that by adoption of this rule, it is keeping its high place in the ranks of educational institutions.

Necessity of preparatory work before commencing the study of law, works no unfair discrimination against those who have not the resources to attend regular college courses. To those whose determination is of a stern quality and who would really take pride in being a member of one of the more learned professions, the way to obtain these necessary credits is open by mediums of the various night courses given by universities in all of the larger cities.

DR. PEARSON CONGRATULATES VANGUARD

I admire the spirit of the students who are to get out a little newspaper from time to time for the benefit of the professional schools of the University of Maryland. One of the most common errors of University students is to fail to learn something of what their fellow students are doing and the great purposes of their education, and to make friendships with men who are giving their time to entirely different lines of work. A newspaper for the professional schools, which will help those in one school to know more about those in other schools, will be a help in more ways than one.

DR. RAYMOND PEARSON,
President.

There are some matters of common interest and there are some things that might be developed to the advantage of all of the schools; e. g., the Deans of the Schools and myself are hoping in the near future to revive an old custom. We hope some day at 11 o'clock to have an assembly of all of the students of all of the schools for the purpose of hearing an address by a distinguished speaker, whom all would like to see and to hear.

We are all interested in maintaining high standards and those in one school are interested in the standards of their own school and they are interested also in having the other schools maintain high standards. A reputation that comes with high standards reflects credit upon all the schools. In this respect, we are making splendid progress at the present time.

WE ARE HERE TO STAY

It is without a doubt that the issue of a paper amongst the students at the schools in Baltimore fills an essential need in the regular routine of mastering a profession. It is not the object of the "Vanguard" to solely disseminate news nor to preach one specific cause, but to be a means of expression for the student and the faculty member. In the paper they may discuss various incidents that are occurring in their particular sphere of life. We learn from others by noting their errors and experiences, and so we would become familiar with life. We earnestly desire that constructive criticisms and grievances be sent to us so that they may be voiced to the general University body.

Heretofore, several attempts have been made to commence a paper. None of these, however, has met with any notable success. This was principally due to lack of co-operation. We, therefore, demand a certain amount of assistance to sustain us in our determination to establish a definite publication - "The Vanguard".

Many of you, no doubt, have thoughts which you wish to express in writing. Here is your opportunity. Perhaps, you have heard a lecture and you wish to comment upon it. Again, a classmate has made a facetious remark and you laugh. Allow us the pleasure of laughing with you. One of your best liked professors has made a notable discovery or a clever writing. We should like very much to know the details, don't you think? Or, the "frat" is doing something you want everyone to know of; a dance, a benefit, or countless other events. Now, can you conceive the tremendous possibilities of a properly managed and unbiased paper? We are asking for your help.

You are well acquainted with the fact that we are separate and distinct bodies. That is, no one knows what is happening at the Law School, or the Medical School, and so on. However, if we join hands and try to forget our professional snobbery, we may accomplish a more agreeable life about the University.

IN MEMORIAM

DR. JOSEPH WILLIAM HOLLAND
December 22, 1869—September 1, 1929

He was an able surgeon, painstaking, conscientious and skillful and was a teacher of rare fidelity, patience and success.—Dr. Shipley.

VALUABLE COLLECTION
ADDED TO LAW LIBRARY

The library of the School of Law has recently received several hundred volumes of Law Books through the generosity of Mr. D. K. Este Fisher, one of the most prominent leaders of the Baltimore Bar. The collection includes the New York and Massachusetts state reports, the Federal Reporter, the English common law and Chancery reports, and numerous volumes of standard treatises and text books. Included among the latter are several volumes compiled by local writers on Maryland law, some of which are out of print and cannot be purchased. Mr. Fisher's gift is very welcome.

NURSES HOLD ELECTION

The Senior Class of the Nurses' Training School has recently held its class officers' elections. As a result, Miss Alice Bennett, Night Superintendent of the University Hospital, was chosen Honorary President. The executive duties of the class are to be assumed by Miss Brittain, Vice-President, Miss Conner; Secretary, Miss Hutchinson; Treasurer, Miss Baker, and Historian, Miss Laigneill.

Accordingly, all indications point to a very successful year for the senior nurses.

CURRENT BROADCASTINGS

This month of school always produces a more or less chaotic condition in the Dental School. This year the dedication exercises of the new building heaped its effect upon the students.

Many of the alumni returned to scenes of their student days only to find most of them padlocked, yet this in no way curbed the exuberant celebration that was evident among them.

As things began to quiet down along the Western Front, the politicians gathered at various strategic points and poured forth their words of honey and nectar. As a result of one of the hardest fought and bitterly contested elections, Johnny Noll emerged victor in the Senior Class. Johnny has the best wishes of all for a most successful year.

Other officers are: Irving Schien, Vice-President; Percival Spitzen, Secretary; Irving Gerstein, Treasurer; Albert Lapow, Sergeant-at-Arms.

In the Junior Class, where every office was carried by the slim margin of one vote, the following results were obtained: Elwood Snyder, President; Alton Eskin, Vice-President; "Shiek" Santillo, Secretary; Horatio Laureska, Treasurer; Harold Tracy, Sergeant-at-Arms.

In the Pre-Junior Class the election was more of landslide proportions and the following slid into office: George Groshans, President; Tom Englander, Vice-President; Richard Prather, Treasurer; Ed. Hill, Secretary; Aloysius Corrigan, Sergeant-at-Arms.

The Sophomore Class elected Ed. Lora its President, and then held a general rebellion in more or less Mexican fashion, thus the other offices have never been filled.

And now the boys have settled to the more or less regular routine. Very little has occurred to break the monotony of a humdrum life, except perhaps the marvelous broadcasting of the University of Maryland Band. These boys are certainly great entertainers, and it would not surprise us to see them get the Garbage Collectors Ball this year.

Brooke Bros. of New York, and Hart, Schaffner and Marx, would like to call to the attention of the Dental School that their representative, Dr. Santillo of the Junior Class, can be seen in the latest double-breasted pin stripes on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays; while Tuesdays and Saturdays Dr. Santillo will demonstrate the single-breasted two button high lapel. Pool Shark outfits are displayed on Thursday.

* * * *

This curious reporter, last week, encountered about the University buildings, Dr. J. N. Bradford, architect from the Ohio State University. Upon cross-examination, we learned that Dr. Bradford had been invited here by the Law School, and that he was making a survey of the university grounds and buildings with the aim of setting out plans for future growth and development for all departments of the University. There'll come a day.

* * * *

Photographers snapping the new Dental and Pharmacy Building, architects surveying the college campuses, deans and assistants taking measurements, we suppose to signify future activity for the benefit of Alma Mater. What ho, progress.

* * * *

The west side of Greene Street's beautiful structure is a matter of pride to students in every department of the University. The medical and law students and the nurses acknowledge that the appearance of the University's location has been improved by 1431%. Part of the new building is already in use by the Dental department. It won't be long now for the full occupation of the entire Pharmacy and Dentistry departments.

* * * *

The library in the new building is on the first floor, facing on Greene Street between the upper and lower entrances. Despite the fact that the tablet in the library reads, "Grieves' Foundation," the pharmacy books also will be housed in this library. We understand Miss Griffith will be in charge of the Dentistry Division and Miss Hamilton of the Pharmacy.

* * * *

We are glad to learn that cheery little Miss Gerber of the Comptroller's office is back on the job after having undergone a nasal operation in the University Hospital.

* * * *

We have always been proud of the caliber of our student body in our Nurses' School. We have observed how readily each class of probationers has improved over its predecessors, in appearance, in the daily march, in column formation to the medical classes.

The counties of Maryland are sending us representatives more chic than of the past. As, after all, appearance is important in nursing.

PHARMACY STUDENTS MAKE WHOOPEE

The School of Pharmacy entertained 300 students and members of its faculty at the second annual get-together at the Knight of Pythias Hall, Charles and Preston Streets, on Friday evening, November 15, 1929. A splendid program of entertaining acts, among which were songs, comic sketches, etc., was offered to the pleasure seeking audience. An exhibition of wrestling and weight lifting was also presented through the courtesy of the Central Y. M. C. A.

A short address by Dean Du Mez, followed by an introduction of the faculty by H. Goldstone, Master of Ceremonies, aided in the encouragement of a true spirit of co-operative friendliness between all of the students. It is with this end in view that the annual get-togethers are arranged.

The cigars and cigarettes which were freely given received a hearty reception. After the entertainment, sandwiches and coffee aided in further dissipation by faculty and students. It was with difficulty that the more serious minded student-council members were finally able to convince their faculty and fellow students that at least a few hours' rest were necessary to the prompt attendance of Saturday morning's classes. All were coaxed to leave at midnight. No casualties have as yet been reported to the student council so we may all look forward to bigger and greater doings by the Pharmacists of next year.

XI PSI PHI

The opening of school this year found all the boys "ready to go," and from all appearances they are still going strong and showing no signs of relaxation.

The "Zip" smoker this year was held in the exhibition room at the Hotel Emerson. The evening was spent in giving some sound advice to the "freshmen" who were present. The speakers of the evening were: Drs. Fay, Oggessen, Ide, Duryea, and Russer. Music was furnished by Landis Curry and his orchestra.

PSI OMEGA

The outset of the 1929-30 season found Psi Omega not lacking in elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the visiting alumni and active members. After a happy and successful smoker a real Hallowe'en dance was put on by the boys and a great deal of innocent fun was the result.

The house has been the center of Psi Omega activity, under the guidance of J. Francis McNerny. Quite a few distinguished visitors were entertained the first month. Among them were Dr. Gurley of San Francisco, and Dr. Heesman of Charlotte, North Carolina.

PHI DELTA EPSILON

The year just commenced finds Phi Delta Epsilon off to a propitious start. With a nucleus of twenty-seven active men carried over en masse from last June, the Fraternity has plans for another successful scholastic and social year.

On Saturday night, November 16th, at the Chapter House at 1503 Eutaw Place, a dance was tendered to the fourteen men whom we have pledged this year.

KAPPA PSI

Sigma Chapter of Kappa Psi Pharmaceutical Fraternity, has been very active during the past summer and the scholastic year thus far under the leadership of Carroll R. Benich. The fraternity has acquired a house at 839 Hamilton Terrace, and is sponsoring a series of dances.

PHI BETA PI

The Zeta Chapter of the Phi Beta Pi held a smoker in honor of its Alumni and members of the Freshmen class. On November 23 several second year men were initiated into the fraternity.

PHI CHI—MEDICAL

Once again, Beta Delta of Phi Chi, is holding forth at its home, 708 St. Paul St. The chapter is enjoying a very fine season under the guidance of its present officers, James A. Miller, Presiding Senior; Marvin L. Slake, Presiding Junior; Richard L. Murphy, Secretary, and Kent M. Hornbrook, Treasurer. All indications point to a banner year in the annals of the second oldest chapter of the largest medical fraternity.

LAMBDA PHI MU

At the last meeting of the Lambda Phi Mu Fraternity the following men were elected officers for the coming year:

Di Fiocco, President; N. Romano, Vice-President; M. J. Coppola, Secretary-Treasurer.

A smoker was held on October 12, and was well attended.

PHI DELTA CHI

Phi Delta Chi has acquired a house at 753 West Fayette Street. The house is a former parsonage and contains sleeping accommodations for fifteen to twenty persons, ample space for social functions and a large pool room. At present a committee is working on the Thanksgiving dance to be held November 29. Alton L. Geesey is starting his second year as president of the chapter.

PHI KAPPA DELTA

The Phi Kappa Delta Fraternity, Theta Chapter, held its first dance of the school year in the Owl room of the Hotel Belvedere. The dance was well attended by members and pledgees from Washington, College Park, and Baltimore.

TAU ALPHA OMEGA

The Tau Alpha Omega has reopened its fraternity house at 2221 N. Eutaw Place. Seven men have pledged thus far from the various professional schools. Jos. Blum has been elected Chancellor for the coming year.

A Thanksgiving affair is to be held at the Emerson Hotel on Nov. 27, 1929. The new chapter at the University of Virginia is to be the guest of honor.

IOTA LAMBDA PHI

The annual convention of the Iota Lambda Phi will be held in New York City, New Year's. Sam H. Feldstein, librarian, is to be toastmaster at the banquet.

A new frat house has been acquired at 2200 Eutaw Place. Plans are being made to present a group of speakers to talk at the house on subjects of interest to the public.

ALPHA OMEGA

The Zeta Mu chapter of the Alpha Omega, will hold its Annual Pledgee Formal at its house on Saturday, November 23. The frat house has been re-decorated for the affair.

SIGMA EPSILON DELTA

The Epsilon chapter of the Sigma Epsilon Delta dental fraternity has just opened its new home at 1904 Eutaw Place. S. E. D. invites with pleasure the inspection of the house by the faculty and student body of the University on Sunday, Nov. 24, between 2 and 5 P. M.

NU SIGMA NU

Arthur F. Jones supervised the informal dance sponsored by the fraternity at their house last Saturday night. It was at this dance that the new initiates were formally presented.

NEW ANAESTHETIC DISCOVERED IN GERMANY.

TRIED WITH SUCCESS AT UNIVERSITY

The search for an ideal anaesthetic, without the unpleasant after-effects of ether, still continues. At the University Hospital, a series of trials are now being made of the new anaesthetic Avertin, which is an alcohol derivative—tribromethanol—discovered in Germany in 1926. It is given by rectal instillation and produces deep sleep within 45 minutes, with no preliminary excitement stage and without the nausea or vomiting which usually follows ether anaesthesia. In Germany it has been used in thousands of anaesthesias with satisfactory results. It is also being used in England. All observers are agreed that it is a most useful anaesthetic, particularly in cases where the excitement and apprehensiveness produced by the process of etherization are especially undesirable such as in the cases of exophthalmic goitre or toxic adenoma of the Thyroid.

At the University Hospital, avertin has been used to produce anaesthesia in many sorts of major operations, ranging from the removal of the appendix to the excision of a growth on the nose. Moderate doses only are being used, so that it is at times necessary to supplement the anaesthesia with a little ether, no more than four ounces, however, being used.

Avertin belongs to that group of anaesthetics which tend to produce a fall in blood-pressure, acidosis and depression of respiration. The experience at the University Hospital has shown that there has been a fall of about ten points in blood-pressure following administration of avertin, which as a rule is recovered during the course of the operation. No serious depression of respiration has been observed. However, it would be contraindicated in cases where there was already present a tendency to low blood pressure and asthenia. Since the drug is eliminated by the liver and kidneys, it cannot be used in individuals showing disease of these organs.

Avertin is a crystalline salt, sparingly soluble in water, at

Last year several hundred students desired extra copies of the Terra Mariae. They were unable to receive them due to the fact that the printer's run had been exhausted. Now, in order to avoid any re-occurrence of the disappointing experience of last year's students, the Terra Mariae staff is requesting that all members of the faculty and student body sign and return the enclosed blank. Do it now! Do not delay! Three and a half dollars per copy.

WILSON ELECTED PRESIDENT OF GORGAS SOCIETY

The Gorgas Society was founded in memory of Doctor Ferdinand J. S. Gorgas, dean of the dental department of the University of Maryland from 1882 to 1911, who held the chair of operative dentistry, therapeutics, and pathology. The purpose of the society is to stimulate progress in the dental profession and dental education. Eligibility for membership is based on scholastic merit, the moral status and all-around ability of a student.

The functional activities of the Society are well under way and traveling with expectations of a big year in the making. The new officers for the ensuing year are, to wit:

J. W. Wilson, President
Phillip Schwartz, Vice-President.
John B. Noll, Secretary.
Julius Miller, Treasurer.
Isaac M. Shupp, Sergeant at Arms.

H. A. Nelson, Scribe.

These men bid well to perpetuate the principles laid down by Doctor Gorgas through their endeavors for the Society. Preparation for the election of new members into Gorgas is progressing with seventeen prospective candidates in the junior class and one in the senior class. This initiation will bring a fine selection of men into Gorgas and a future full of bright anticipations.

body-temperature and easily absorbed by mucous membranes. In small doses it is antipyretic in larger doses a hypnotic, and in still larger doses a narcotic. To produce surgical anaesthesia, it is given in doses of 90 to 150 milligrams per Kilogram of body-weight. It has not yet been placed in the market in this country and can only be obtained by importation from Germany.

PHARMACISTS ENCOURAGE ACTIVITIES

REPRESENTED BY DEBATING TEAM

During the past two years, the school of Pharmacy has made rapid strides in the formation of extra-curricular activities among its students. The progress in this field has been successful because of the payment of a fee by every student in the school.

The money collected as student activities' fee is budgeted and a certain allotment is made for each activity. For example, each class holds a dance, all expenses being paid for by the fee. The student is not forced to pay to attend his class dance. Also each class is given sufficient money to pay its expenses incurred during the school year, thus doing away with the payment of class dues. In addition, the school encourages a smoker and general get-together for the students and faculty. Many acts of entertainment, smokes, and plenty of refreshments are among the features. A debating team is also maintained as well as encouragement in tennis and basket-ball, all expenses being paid from this fund. In short, all activities of the student body are given the financial support of the fund.

The plans of the school have proven effective in fostering a better school spirit among its students and it would be well for the other professional schools to adopt similar plans.

The School of Pharmacy is the only school in the University which has a representative debating team. Debating was started at the school about five years ago when there was felt a need for an outside activity to further school spirit among the students. The team has been very successful in most of its debates.

In addition to debates held in Baltimore, the team has met representatives of other schools in other cities. This year's schedule includes debates with the Medical College of Virginia, at Baltimore, and George Washington University, at Washington. The team is coached by Gardner H. Foley of the English Department.

FIRST CONVOCATION SINCE WAR SUCCESSFUL

DR. MORRIS S. LAZARON,
PRINCIPAL SPEAKER

For the first time since the war, the professional schools of Baltimore assembled at a general get-together or convocation at Ford's Theatre, December 17th. The majority of the student body turned out en masse to witness a truly excellently arranged program. The students, led by Mr. Frank H. Gressitt and accompanied by the peppy Dental School Orchestra, lustily sang several popular songs. (We wonder why "Sweet Andeline" was sung so well?) Dr. Pearson then opened the convocation remarking that a new hospital and a new law building would soon be a reality. He then introduced the principal speaker of the assembly, Rabbi Morris S. Lazaron. Dr. Lazaron's calm and deliberate manner of oratory and his interesting subject soon had produced its effect, the audience was deeply engrossed in his talk.

Dr. Lazaron stated, "that the old order of things was being hacked to pieces and was characteristic of the new spirit of the world at the time in which we live. We are destroying the old, but are we preparing ourselves to create? The boy destroys, the man creates. Old customs have outlived their usefulness and adjustments have been made, but not in the life of the man or woman, the individual. As examples, are we not always in a mad rush, going to movies, self-indulgence, lack of desire for meditation, constant motion—all in a circle. Our life is segmented—we must have a unified motive. Three things must be developed to fit an individual for the battle with life:

- (1) An apprehension of eternal things. It is not the material aspect, but the symbolic expression of mind and soul which called it into being. (The beauty of a forest or a sunset).
- (2) Loyalty to a cause greater than ours.
- (3) Sense of the value of Brotherhood.

Dr. Pearson appropriately closed the convocation relating his experiences on a ship during a heavy fog. The fog being symbolic of ignorance and that one should keep his head above the fog.

CONDOLENCE

The many friends of Dr. J. C. Wolf, of the Pharmacy School, were sorry to hear of his father's death in November. Dr. Chas. A. Wolf has owned and operated a pharmacy on the corner of Bank Street and Broadway for fifty-one years. He was a graduate of our school, then The Maryland College of Pharmacy, in 1878. At the age of twenty-one Dr. Wolf opened his store in East Baltimore, which he actively maintained until a few years before his death. Dr. Wolf was an outstanding member of his profession and a prototype of a fast disappearing body of individuals.

A SENSE OF DUTY

It is difficult to understand the attitude of the day Law School classes in refusing to be represented in the Terra Mariae. When one stops to consider that there is not one unified endeavor of the University as a whole, excepting the publishing of our annual, we wonder that there should be any lack of spirit at all, particularly from our future members of the bar and bench. Perhaps they are too self-centered to care about the success of a venture so eagerly looked forward to by the students of the other schools. One cannot apprehend the idea a senior not desiring to be included in a book containing the past records of his stay at Maryland. After all, do they realize what they are doing? In later years, wiping the dust from the "1930 Terra Mariae" and looking through it, we recollect the faces and actions of the past—what is its worth? We would take no money for it.

There are two major reasons why the day Law classes, and Senior class and the junior class of the night Law school should assist in making the book more cherishable. Firstly, the financial support is greatly needed and secondly, the Terra Mariae must be representative of all the schools. In discussing the latter we are faced with the problem of an outsider looking at our book, "What! are not the day school Law students represented, why? Where is Tom Biddison's picture?" What can we answer? And in commenting upon the former we are faced with a more colossal problem. We are not as fortunate as other schools in having a fee paid by all students for school publications and naturally the financial success of the book is assured. On the other hand, we must make every dollar count and we must depend upon assistance from the student. In addition, it must be borne in mind that there are two hundred students less than of last year graduating and that means a decreased revenue.

You day Law students are causing an irreparable injury to yourselves as well as, to the University of Maryland, for it is a duty that you must fulfill and remember Dr. Lazon's words, "LOYALTY TO A CAUSE GREATER THAN OURS."

DO YOU KNOW

That the new Dental-Pharmacy Building cost approximately $400,000?

That the total cost of the equipment in the new building was approximately $200,000?

That the total cost of Pharmacy equipment in the building was approximately $60,000?

That the new electrically equipped Dental Clinic cost approximately $125,000?

That the new Dental Clinic contains several sets of loud-speakers for the making of announcements to the students at work?

That the School of Pharmacy occupies 45% of the building?

That the Dental Department has already dedicated its portion of the building, the dedication being attended by nearly one thousand alumni?

That the Pharmacy Department will dedicate its portion of the building during the early part of May, 1930, when the American Pharmaceutical Association will hold its convention in the City of Baltimore?

TWENTY-SIX STATES SEND STUDENTS TO U. OF M.

According to the statistics just released by the Registrar, Mr. Hillegeist, twenty-six states and the District of Columbia are represented by students attending the University for a degree. The total number of students at both the professional schools and College Park amounts to two thousand seven hundred and twenty-six. Included in that number are four hundred and forty-four women.

Of additional interest is the fact that eight foreign countries are also represented, that is, in the Baltimore Schools, as follows: British West Indies, two; Canada, two; Mexico, one; Nicaragua, five; China, three; Palestine, one; Porto Rica, fourteen, and Russia, one.

CURRENT BROADCASTINGS

The medical undergraduates have been greatly stirred by the appearance on the bulletin board, in the hall of the Medical School, at regular intervals, of a typewritten news-sheet addressed principally to the members of the Sophomore class. This hand-made periodical of legal size paper, contained caustic comments and observations of its anonymous author in a true Menckonian style. The paper was called by its mysterious author the "Itch"; and readily manifested his irritations with things in general. It seems that for a time, the burden of his medical subjects and studies would not down or dull this sophomore's literary ability and aspirations, and his determination to give it expression. At any rate, the various pert paragraphs made in the "Itch" created somewhat of an epidemic through the second year class. The anonymous editor directed shafts at faculty and student body without fear. The "Itch" evidently got under the skin of a literary freshman of the Medical School, and there appeared in competition with the "Itch" and posted at its side a journalistic sheet of a smaller size, entitled the "Scratch." The anonymous author of the "Scratch" in his first and only edition, informed his public that the "Itch" was an organ(ism) instigated by the "Scratch."

We noticed in Vol. 1, No. 6, of the "Itch," among other "sagacious crevices," the author commented on the fact that he paid a visit to the Gayety Theater and, much to his surprise, did not find the dean there. Thereafter, as mysteriously as the "Itch" and "Scratch" appeared, so they now disappeared. Of course, we do not say that the publication making the above mentioned comment with reference to the dean has any bearing, but we do wonder whether the faculty in fright applied itchol and erased the irritation, if any, gendered by the "Itch" and the "Scratch."

The medical dictionary tells us that there are various kinds of itches—barber (see tinea sycosis), bakers, bricklayers, grocers, lumbermen, wash-women, etc. However, we therefore congratulate the unknown authors of the "Itch" and "Scratch" on their literary ability and on their passing this common disease on to the press—for the press has at times irritated our sensibilities by caustic comment.

HEARD OVER THE PRESCRIPTION COUNTER

The Freshman Pharmacy class has merrily started its activities and is still going with a bang. Debating teams are being organized. A Freshman basket ball quint has been formed, with Shipley as manager, a large squad having regular workouts, and a schedule of games with strong teams in the making.

And the Freshman dance is "just behind the corner." The committee, consisting of Jack Ulrich, Albert Shipley, James Young, and Laeko, is diligently and energetically working out all the plans and details for the hop, which probably will be held the second week in January.

The Freshmen are out to enjoy themselves—at least, socially.

Socially speaking and "pun" my word, the second year pharmacy class is up on its toes, or rather was. It held a most successful dance at the Emerson Hotel, December 11. The band secured for the dance did its best to pep up things, a great number of students and their fair companions were present, and it was a gala affair which was thoroughly enjoyed by all. All who attended the dance will long remember the evening which was most enjoyable and entertaining.

The committee which helped to put this affair "over big" was made up of Joseph Gross, chairman; Virginia Scott, Frank Dinges, Jr., Bernard Gorfine, and Ben Beitler.

new Herloch Sholmes, or Pinkerton, Jr. A few days before the Christmas holidays began, some "mysterious spirits" turned loose in the old Pharmacy building. Chairs were playfully overturned, tables incapacitated, boards slit open, floors given an artistic touch. The "youthful spirits," however, were never apprehended. The instructors carefully took finger prints, used freely, magnifying glasses, and even psychoanalyzed the matter. But to no avail—the mystery still remains as deep as ever.

The Pharmacy students should be given extra credit for physical training work. A few days before the holidays, they were to be seen walking to the new building with packages in their hands—most likely, developing their chests, inhaling fresh air, using their muscles, and indulging in exercise.

It is reported that Santa Claus presented one of the Seniors with a wife. Lots of luck to you, Archie, "Old Boy"—you'll need it.

And—hold your breath, Dr. Roseberry is also to be congratulated, for he married a Kentucky belle during the holidays.

With profound apologies to Ripley, believe it or not, we are now housed in our new building and we are extremely proud of it. At this time we wish to thank everyone who was instrumental in this development. We furthermore realize that its growth has been gradual, its progress tiresome and tedious, but we do not forget that now as a result of this we are the proud possessors of the finest and best Dental and Pharmacy Building in the country.

So cheers and congratulations
We heap upon you, from every hand

And we, as students are proud to Acclaim it the finest in the land—
There are memories of the old school

That linger with us yet
To betray them is my duty
To expound them is my task—
This is a day of reckoning, none to be excused—

So here goes, these problems upon which be mused—

The pass word of the pathology clinic was not our choice—

It was the ever repeated phrase of just one man's voice,

Dr. Miller knows his dentures well

But that one phrase, casual patient, has him in its spell—

At school Dr. Gaver's world centers around the median line,

But outside we find it golf that takes up all his time.

Dr. Mott, the hero of the clinic floor

Has one term that we absolutely abhor

Run out your fissures, run out your grooves

So lets get busy fellows, there is no time to lose.

Classes may come and classes may go

But Dr. McCarthy's infirmary list goes on forever—

Orthodontia talkies, the latest thing out

This is Dr. Anderson's hobby—
Of which we have no doubt.

Of Dr. Browning, we are in doubt
Is it the fair sex or the inlay that keeps him running about?

Once in awhile we've heard angels get misplaced

We discovered that, when we saw Dr. Deems hanging around the place.

Bridges may rock, loosen and fall,

But in Dr. Koshi, we found a friend upon whom we could always call.

Dr. Dorsey, our exodontist, had better watch his step

For it's rumored that some children's nurse is going to get him yet.

Dr. Karn, the SPERCIALIST, is all we have to say

For other than his grammar we find he is o.k.

Music in our new school, sees
Lapow at his best,

For waltzing with fainting patients is his supreme test.

Red Hulit's D. O. inlay has been lost,

It must be found at any cost or he will simply die,

For smaller things than that have often made him cry.

LAW SCHOOL TO HAVE NEW BUILDING

Assistant Dean Freeman Responsible for Reorganization

In some ways the graduation of this year's Senior Class from the Law School marks the end of an era. For a period of years longer than the experience of the great majority of those now actively connected with the institution, the Law School has been carrying on its work as best it could in such quarters as the inadequate facilities of its own building and the courtesy of the other schools afforded. The classes that it graduates in future will have the advantages of a new and modern building.

According to present plans this will comprise lecture rooms, practice court rooms, offices, lounge rooms, and, last but not least, library accommodations sufficient to meet the needs of the school for many years. What this will mean to the law students can only be appreciated by those who, like this year's graduates, have pursued their legal education at times in lecture rooms illuminated by lights so dimly religious that notes were unreadable, and usually heated only when the evening was warm ;and who have sought their authorities for a practice court case in a library, where, no matter how diligent the custodian's labors might be, shelf room for necessary books was simply "non est," and the proper arrangement of those on hand was impossible.

That an increased morale, a higher degree of that intangible thing called school spirit, a greater pride in the Alma Mater, will be tremendously fostered by the new building, goes without saying.

Yet, in the final analysis, it is the students that make a school, and not the physical equipment. And from this standpoint, the class that graduates this year may well regard itself as the beginning of a new era rather than the end of an old. For, with the exception of the day class graduating last year, they constitute the first class to leave the school under the higher standards of admission put into effect some years ago. They bear the burden of demonstrating in future years the wisdom of the institution of those standards. That they will bear that burden worthily is open to little doubt. Sincerity of purpose and earnestness of effort go further in maintaining a proud tradition for a school than fine buildings or expensive equipment.

TERRA MARIAE TO BE DISTRIBUTED MAY 1ST

Will Contain Novel Features

The staff of the Terra Mariae expects to have the year book of the Baltimore Schools ready for distribution by May 1st. The book will contain many pictures of the new building, as well as certain intimate views of the other schools. It has been planned to follow a definite art theme which will be expressed by four color illustrations and a general art motif in unity with the theme. It is feared that there will not be sufficient books printed to meet the demand. In order to avoid any disappointment it is requested of all who desire extra copies to inform the staff of their intentions by March 15th.

It is also imperative to note that all contracts must be paid by March 15th. Otherwise, the pictures will not appear in the Terra Mariae. Bear this in mind. It is important.

DEAN ROWLAND AND ASSISTANT ENTERTAINED BY STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council of the Medical School has gotten away to a good start this year. Six meetings have already been held, officers were elected last fall and an ambitious program undertaken. The Council has been instrumental in securing written questions on all formal examinations, in obtaining better ventilation in the hospital amphitheatre by means of a partition which screens off the children's ward, and in securing better illumination on the blackboard in the Chemical Hall.

It is the purpose of the Council to represent the Student-body before the Faculty and to deal with the problems of the student welfare. In order to create an atmosphere of understanding and co-operation between the Faculty and the students, the Council held a dinner on December 2nd at the University Inn and entertained Dean Rowland and Dr. Laurence H. Baker, Assistant to the Dean. The good food, well cooked and attractively served, lent itself to the success of the friendly undertaking.

The Council wishes to call attention to the facilities offered by the University Book Store and the Cafeteria and urges each individual student to co-operate with the Alumni Association in availing himself of this service.

PHARMACISTS INSTALL NEW EQUIPMENT

Lloyd Extracting Apparatus Now In Use

A new era has dawned for the School of Pharmacy of the University of Maryland—the era of New Equipment.

Mills for grinding drugs, as well as sifting machines, have been installed in the basement. A ball mill, a jar mill, a pony mixer, an ointment mill, and a collapsible tube filler, all electrically driven, have been installed in the pharmaceutical manufacturing laboratory on the ground floor. Here also have been installed a tablet machine and copper sugar coating pans, electrically driven. But perhaps one of the most important pieces of apparatus that has been installed here is the Lloyd Extraction Apparatus, which is a special apparatus designed by Dr. John Uri Lloyd of Cincinnati, Ohio.

The library, used jointly by the Schools of Dentistry and Pharmacy, is located on the main floor. Here the principal pharmaceutical and chemical journals published in this country, as well as a great many foreign journals, are available for the use of students for general reference, as well as research work. A number of complete sets of journals and reference books have been added to the library during the past year, and when the books and journals which will be made possible by the $2,500 Library Fund of the Alumni Association, are ready, the students in the School of Pharmacy will enjoy the use of a carefully selected, comprehensive library.

Two balopticons, with aluminum coated screens, on spring rollers, have been provided in two of the larger lecture rooms to be used for illustrating from slides and opaque objects.

The physics, inorganic and organic chemistry laboratories have been equipped with the most modern tables and apparatus. Many interesting and useful pieces of apparatus have been provided for the pharmaceutical chemistry and research laboratories. An electric furnace has been installed for food and drug analysis. A gas and electric combustion furnace have been provided for organic analysis. An immersion refractometer and an Abbe refractometer have been installed for studying the purity of drugs and chemicals. Microphotographic apparatus has been provided for use in microchemistry. A colorimeter has been installed for use in colorimetric analysis. A constant temperature oven, which will maintain a temperature within 1-10 of 1°, has been installed for use in the research laboratory, which is also equipped with chainomatic balances.

On the fourth floor is the new commercial pharmacy laboratory, in which has been placed beautifully constructed up-to-date drug store equipment, in which exhibits will be placed and used for demonstration purposes. This room has also been provided with desks for the teaching of business methods.

The museum is also located on the fourth floor, and provisions are here being made to exhibit not only the collections of the chemistry and botany and pharmacognosy departments, but also articles of historical interest to the School of Pharmacy.

The fifth floor is a very interesting part of the building. Here are the zoology, the bacteriology and pharmacological laboratories, each equipped with the latest improved tables and accessories. An animal cage, cage sterilizer and aquarium, as well as kymographs and special apparatus, are being installed for use in pharmacological tests.

CONDOLENCE

The university wishes to offer its condolence to the family of Prof. R. Earl Christian, of the law school, in their bereavement. He came to the University of Maryland Law School in 1927, and had taken an active part in the work of that school since that time. He was highly regarded as an inspiring and successful teacher, very popular with his colleagues and his students.

It was with deep sorrow that the students heard of the untimely death of Solomon Levy, A.B. of the Senior Class of the Medical School. He had come from Jerusalem, Palestine, to study here, intending to return to the Holy Land to practice. His efforts were commendable, his duties meritoriously accomplished, and he was well-liked by his fellow students.

THE ACHIEVEMENT OF AN AMBITION

The VANGUARD has the earnest purpose of representing the student thought of all the professional schools of the University. The establishment of a student paper to be published weekly, is an ambition which the present editorial board hopes to see achieved within the next two years. But for the present the editors are concerned with the problem of making the paper, even though it be published only a few times during the year, an effective medium by which its readers, the student bodies and the faculties, may be informed about the varied activities of the University of Maryland in Baltimore. We also desire to make the paper a worthy forum through which its readers can express themselves on questions involving the affairs of the University. This latter function of the University paper, it is readily understood, can be made a very vital force in the influencing of student opinions and faculty action. The VANGUARD editors will welcome any items which students may wish to submit to them as forum material, with the assurance that they will treat all such contributions with a fair application of editorial tact and taste.

The editor is greatly tempted to devote a page in the Terra Mariae with the following statement: "There is also a Day Law School."

The editor wrote to the Diamondback, the newspaper at College Park, requesting the establishment of an exchange. The request was apparently refused for no one even replied to our humble demand. We are at a loss to explain.

GORGAS ODONTOLOGICAL SOCIETY ELECTS JOHN WOLF A MEMBER

The Gorgas Society has regularly convened in business sessions characteristic of its purpose. At the last meeting the president, who attended the Maryland Dental Society's clinics at the Lord Baltimore Hotel, discussed the advantages of attending such clinics and the value afforded in coming in contact with the type of clinicians presented at these conventions. The Gorgas spirit and atmosphere has prevailed to the extreme through the society this year; as a result, the membership has grown from a group of six to twenty-six. Mr. John W. Wolf, a member of the senior class and a high type of student, recently joined the ranks of Gorgas in due ritual.

A standing committee has been functioning, concerning visiting speakers, who come before the society monthly, bringing a subject of their selection for discussion.

While the definite assurance of adequate physical facilities and equipment is a matter of congratulation for the Law School, it is to be regretted that it coincides with the departure of Assistant Dean Robert H. Freeman who, due to the pressure of personal affairs, has asked and been granted an indefinite leave of absence. To Dean Freeman, more than to any other one man, is due the credit of successfully reorganizing the Law School so as to make of it an institution of which the University and the State may rightfully be proud. The reorganization was not an easy task; it called for great patience, tireless effort, the exercise at times of the utmost tact and diplomacy. It is doubtful whether any other man could have accomplished the task as successfully. His loss at this time, when his efforts have finally attained complete success, is a loss to the School, the University, and the State of Maryland. It is hoped by everyone interested in the School, that it may be a temporary loss only.

CURRENT BROADCASTINGS

We regret to find our University in the papers these past days. Newspaper head lines told the whole wide world "Fire Endangers Patients' Lives at University Hospital," "Panic at University Hospital Averted." Front page stories appeared in local dailies depicting the extent and significance of the fire that was discovered under the floor of the Ward A and B in the hospital building. We did not realize the extent and significance of the fire discovered until we read the interesting news story. However, we do commend, in a very sensible way, the manner in which the Fire Department and the Hospital authorities acted in the situation. The fire was extinguished in an unusual officiate and quiet manner.

Not so long ago you witnessed the dedication of the new Dental School. We will have an opportunity to see and hear the dedication exercises of the new Pharmacy Building in the first week of May.

Did you know that the first year book of the school was published in 1897 and entitled "Bones, Molars and Briefs"? This ran on until 1905 when the first "Terra Mariae" was published. Other publications of the past about the University of Maryland were, "Old Maryland," "Maryland Gazette," "Hospital Bulletins," "Old Line Collegiate."

Have you seen the new nose and throat clinic in the hospital recently opened by Dr. Looper in the memory of his daughter who died last year? The clinic is the most modern in equipment and has two operating rooms, one especially for bronchoscope work.

The University of Maryland Professional Schools now occupies all four corners at Lombard and Greene Streets. The Linden Avenue (No. 3) street car is the only line that runs through our campus.

The Pharmacists have a debating team of no mean forensic ability that are figured to out-talk representatives of George Washington University, "Du Quesne" and other schools scheduled for debate. The boys all have class-room experience.

The Harvard University paper, "The Crimson," has requested the "Vanguard" to organize and conduct a definite campaign in order to determine the opinion of university men as to the question of prohibition. They are conducting a nationwide investigation in an effort to organize the colleges in the country on one side or the other, and if possible to hold a straw vote in the Spring. We are considering the advisability of such a plan.

THE UNIVERSITY SPOTLIGHT

Editor's Note—This inaugurates a series of articles which will appear regularly in The Vanguard. The purpose of this column is to acquaint everyone with his instructors and fellow students. Comments, criticisms and suggestions are welcomed.

DR. EDUARD UHLENHUTH

Dr. Eduard Uhlenhuth of the Department of Anatomy of the Medical School is one of the most interesting and likeable professors to be found at our institution. He was born in Germany and studied at the University of Vienna, receiving his doctorate from that institution while working with that monumental personage of Medicine, Alexis Carrel. Shortly afterwards he came to this country to accept a position as assistant at the Biological Institute of The Rockefeller Foundation in New York. There, in his own laboratory, Dr. Uhlenhuth performed some outstanding researches upon the chemistry of endocrines. He remained at the Institute for eleven years before coming to the University of Maryland as associate professor of Anatomy.

His researches, dealing principally with our knowledge of the endocrines, have continued and he has contributed approximately seventy-five articles to the scientific world. His extensive work upon the chemistry of thyroxine and of the thyroid gland are well known and frequently quoted in medical literature. Gaskell in her book, "What is Life?" pays tribute to his work.

Dr. Uhlenhuth is an enthusiastic teacher. Students always find him willing and anxious to help with their research problems. He, himself, is a true research worker and his whole attitude is indicative of one who has developed the art of critical thinking to a high degree.

DR. E. G. VANDEN BOSCHE

Whenever a course in inorganic chemistry is mentioned undergraduate students think of Dr. E. G. Vanden Bosche, or better known as "Vandy," who is associate professor of this branch of chemistry. The ever inquisitive reporter, following this tip, sought this popular professor for an interview.

In 1922 Dr. Vanden Bosche graduated from the Lebanon Valley College. In '23 he went to Columbia to continue his studies and in 1925 Dr. Vanden Bosche came to the University of Maryland, where he received his doctorate in electrochemistry. Since his coming to the University he has been particularly active in building up the course in inorganic chemistry at the Baltimore schools. Dr. Vanden Bosche is conducting his own research work for publication and at the present time he is contemplating research work with graduate students in physical chemistry.

The students find him an enthusiastic and capable professor with methods of presenting his subject intensely interesting and unique. They catch his enthusiasm and are eager to show their appreciation of his interest in them.

The freshman class of the Pharmacy School has elected Dr. Vanden Bosche honorary president of their class.

DENTS DEFEAT

PRESCRIPTIONISTS

The basketball matches between the School of Pharmacy Seniors and the School of Dentistry has resulted in a draw. The first game, which was taken by the Pharmacists, was a long drawn-out affair, and required an extra five minute session before the Dents were finally downed. The game was a nip and tuck one, the Prescriptionists scoring their tying goal as the whistle blew to end the game. In the following extra period they easily scored three goals before the Dents could get going. The final score was 26-20.

MANY NOTABLES LECTURE ON SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH

The University of Maryland Biological Society was founded February 11, 1928, at the University of Maryland. The purpose of this Society is to promote and advance the biological sciences and sciences related thereto, and to facilitate personal intercourse between men and women imbued with the scientific spirit of research.

During the year 1928-29 the Society enjoyed a most successful series of programs which proved to be instructive and inspiring to the members and those medical students and visitors who availed themselves of the privilege of attending.

This year, up to the present time, the Society has held three program meetings. At the first meeting, Dr. Boris M. Zawadowski, Head of the Physiological Institute, Sverloff University, addressed the Society on "The Effect of Feeding Thyroid upon the Plumage of Fowls." After this meeting, a dinner was held in honor of Dr. Zawadowski at the Alumni Building of the University of Maryland Medical School. At the second meeting of the year, Professor Leon Asher, Professor of Physiology at the University of Bern, Switzerland, was the invited speaker of the occasion and addressed the Society on the subject of "Newer Aspects of the Physiology of the Thyroid Gland." After this meeting, which was well attended by members of the University of Maryland staff and the staff of the

In the second game the Pill-slingers were completely routed by a more accurate, better shooting and fresher team. Boote, of the Dental School, did not miss any shots, long or under the basket. Englander, a Dent, was another man at his best, getting passes time and again right from under the hands of the Pharmacy guards. The Pharmacists tried several combinations of men, but none were good enough to stem the steady flow of markers by the Dents. The final score was 34-18. The best performers for the Pharmacists were Stimek and Jaffe.

Both games drew a large number of students from the contesting schools and the 104th Armory was the scene of the games. A playoff will be held later to decide the rubber game and the winners will be crowned Champions of the Baltimore schools.

Johns Hopkins Hospital and Medical School, a dinner was given in honor of Professor Asher at the University Club. At this dinner short addresses were made by Professor Howell of the Hopkins and Professor Asher. On Monday, November 11, the third program meeting of the Society was held in the Medical Amphitheatre of the University and Dr. Carl G. Hartman of the Carnegie Embryological Institute of the Johns Hopkins University addressed the meeting on "Some Newer Aspects of the Menstrual Cycle." Dr. Hartman has carried out an extensive investigation upon the menstrual cycle of monkeys. The moving picture was most interesting and of an unusual type. This film was prepared by Mr. Carl D. Clark, Head of the Department of Art of the University of Maryland Hospital.

On Monday, November, 18, the Society held its first regular business meeting of the year. In addition to the regular business which was brought before the Society, the following members were elected to full membership in the organization:

Dr. Earl S. Johnson, Dr. R. P. Thomas, Dr. J. B. S. Norton, Dr. H. J. Patterson, Dr. C. O. Appleman, Mr. F. J. Figge, A.B.; Mr. J. M. Haynes was elected an associate member.

NEW ENLARGED LABORATORY FOR BALTIMORE

On February 17 the formal opening of the new quarters of Co-operative Dental Laboratories took place. It was an opening which will long be remembered by the dental profession of Baltimore, the program included, as it did, many noted specialists along the lines of prosthetic dentistry.

The new laboratory is equipped with mechanical appliances which make it the last word in efficiency, and which make it possible for the Co-operative staff to render the highest standard of service.

Co-operative Dental Laboratories has kept pace with the progress of Baltimore—incidentally the home of the dental profession—and it now boasts one of the finest dental laboratories in the country.

DR. OLIVER LECTURES ON HISTORY OF MEDICINE

Lectures on Anesthesia and Cancer
To Be Given by Drs. Welch and Bloodgood

A series of lectures on the History of Medicine are being given by Dr. John Rathbone Oliver every Thursday in the chemical amphitheatre. Dr. Oliver, who is the author of "Fear" and "Victim and Victor," portrays one of the characters in his book, "Fear" in the following manner: "He was a Soul-Doctor, tall, thin, with a slight stoop to his shoulders. His hair was gray, a sort of yellowish, dirty gray. And he liked gray clothes, loose, sloppy sorts of steelish-gray suits, without any shape to them, and with lots of room inside them. And with big, wide pockets." This description of the psychiatrist in the book fits Dr. Oliver very well. And, undoubtedly he is describing himself. Dr. Oliver lectures to the audience in a calm, collected manner, eyes shut, moving about, occasionally looking at his notes.

This course of lectures in the History of Medicine is of modern times only. Beginning with the development of hygiene and sanitation in England, and continuing through with the germ theory of disease and the cellular structure of living matter, Dr. Oliver presents his subject in a very interesting manner. Augmented by a collection of slides, one in particular showing a celebration given in honor of Pasteur who would not be seated until Koch had been invited to be seated by his side; and the slides showing the resurrectionists and the poem about doctors and these resurrectionists; and the sidewhiskers of professional men, who were not doctors until they had succeeded in growing these bushy appendages—all absorbingly fascinating to both technical and lay men.

On April 24th Dr. Bloodgood of the Johns Hopkins University, will lecture on the modern researches of cancer, and Dr. Welch, on May 1st, will talk on anesthesia and its development. Dr. Singer, an English professor, author of the History of Medicine, will lecture at the Welch Library on May 7th. Naturally, students interested in the History of Medicine should take advantage of these lectures.

DENTAL SENIORS TENDER BALL

Seniors of the Dental School joined in conviviality with many representatives of the lower classes, in the form of a subscription ball; an open dance affair.

Everything was merry and the traditional whoopee was made. Modes of dancing varied from the minuet and polka to the kinkajou and shag and other impromptu steps inspired by the torrid jazz team of the "Happy Harlem Harlequin Syncopators."

The gorgeous gowns and good looking frauleins added color and

ALUMNI CLUB BEING FORMED SIMILAR TO HARVARD CLUB

A mass meeting of alumni of the University of Maryland for the purpose of forming a University of Maryland Club, an organization similar in function and purpose to the large university clubs which exist in all of the big cities of the country, is to be held in the near future.

The club is to be composed of alumni from every school of the university, and it is anticipated by those promoting the movement that the initial nucleus from all divisions of the school will give the club a starting membership in excess of 500.

An organizing committee, consisting of representatives from College Park, the dental school, the medical school, the School of Pharmacy, the law school and the nurses' school met last Thursday evening to formulate a constitution and by-laws for the club. This is to be passed on at the mass meeting and officers of the new group are to be selected.

The plan of the organizing committee, as set forth by J. Hanson Mitchell, chairman, is to bring together into one club, very much like the Harvard Club, all of the alumni of the university, so that they will learn to know each other and through contact and mutual association promote the interests of the university.

Those backing the organization expressed the opinion that with more than 5,000 alumni of the university living in Baltimore a very large and strong club will be possible.

The plan of the group is for the club to secure permanent headquarters where members may gather, and where the functions of the alumni may center, Mr. Mitchell said. University of Maryland clubs already exist in New York City, Philadelphia, Cumberland, Norfolk, Va., and Washington, D. C.

Alumni of any school of the university, Mr. Mitchell said, are eligible to attend the meeting.

The organization committee consists of Dr. Edgar B. Friedenwald, representing the medical school; Dr. Aquila Jackson, the pharmacy school; Dr. W. Buckley Clemson, the dental school; Charles W. Sylvester, College Park; John E. Magers, the law school; Mrs. J. Paul Troy, the nurses' school, and Mr. Mitchell, general chairman.

zest to the affair, together with the general atmosphere of cheer and joviality.

Dr. Brice Dorsey and fiancée and Dr. B. Browning and fiancée honored the affair as personal representatives rather than faculty chaplains.

The committee in charge was as follows: Michael Messori, chairman; John Maguire and Irwin Gerstein. John Noll, president of the Senior Class, co-operated with the committee in making the affair a success.

Pharmacy School Dedicates Building May 10th

Senior Class Invited To Banquet

The pharmacists of Baltimore will entertain visitors from all over the country, retailers, wholesalers, manufacturers, teachers, research workers, writers, board members, association officials, and others, during the first week of May, 1930.

The seventy-eighth annual meeting of the American Pharmaceutical Association will be held at the Emerson Hotel May 5th to 10th, 1930. The American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy, The National Association of Boards of Pharmacy, and the Pharmaceutical Law Enforcement Officials will also hold annual sessions during that week. Alumni luncheons, Fraternity and Sorority dinners and Veteran Drug-gists' Association luncheons are also being planned during that time. There will be sightseeing trips, dances, card parties, musicals, etc., for the guests. In fact, the pharmacists are planning for more than a three-ring convention, embodying not only the more serious scientific, historical, commercial and legislative sessions, but also worthwhile entertainment features.

On Saturday afternoon, May 10, 1930, 2.30 P. M., the new building of the School of Pharmacy of the University of Maryland will be dedicated. The exercises will be held at the Westminster Presbyterian Church, Greene and Fayette Streets. Dr. A. G. DuMez, Dean, will preside, and short addresses will be made by His Excellency, Governor

Albert C. Ritchie, President Raymond A. Pearson, and Dr. Edward Kremers of the University of Wisconsin. The visiting pharmacists are being invited to attend these exercises. The visitors will be conducted through the new building by the Faculty of the School of Pharmacy immediately following the ceremony.

On Saturday at 7 P. M. at the Emerson Hotel, the annual banquet of the Alumni Association of the School of Pharmacy will be held. The guests at this banquet will include not only the members of the Alumni Association and their wives, and the prospective graduates of the 1930 class of the School of Pharmacy, but also the visiting pharmacists who have been in attendance at the conventions. The Faculty of the School of Pharmacy should be congratulated upon having chosen such an appropriate time for the dedication of the new building.

Then the visitors will proceed to Washington, where the United States Pharmaceutical Convention will be held at the New Willard Hotel, May 12th and 13th. At this convention delegates from medical and pharmaceutical organizations, teaching institutions, etc., will elect the members of the XI Revision Committee of the Pharmacopeia.

The National Conference on Pharmaceutical Research will be held on May 12th in Washington, and the Plant Science Seminar will be held on May 15th, 16th and 17th, following the U. S. P. Convention.

GORGAS TO HOLD BANQUET

The March business meeting of Gorgas was held as per usual—there was a lengthy discussion concerning a change in the constitution, but by vote there was no definite action accomplished in this matter. The committee in charge of visiting speakers are to be congratulated on their last speaker, Commander White, of the United States Navy. His subject was "Dentistry in The Navy," illustrated with both lantern slides and movies. In order that all those interested might benefit by his lecture the society invited the combined Junior and Senior classes and members of the faculty. The meeting was very well attended and enjoyed by all. It is the intention of the Society to hold a meeting this month at which officers for the coming year will be elected. In the near future, the Society will be entertained by their annual banquet dance at the Belvedere Hotel, at which time the graduating members will receive their Gorgas diplomas.

Dr. William Royal Stokes

Whereas the recent death of Dr. William Royal Stokes has removed from the faculty an honored and esteemed teacher, in whom all Maryland took just pride;

And, whereas, the student body are deprived of the inspiration of a teacher whose contributions to the Medical School and the Community were unique and unsparing of effort;

And, whereas, the spirit of his life work was exemplified by his death in the line of duty for the advancement of science and for the relief of human suffering;

Therefore, be it resolved, that the Student Council of the Medical School, on behalf of the student body, hereby express to his family and associates its profound sense of loss in his death and of gratitude for his life.

Pharmacy School. Dr. Jenkins is from the wild west, where men are men and women are governors. Born in Sparta, Wisconsin, he received his Ph.G., M.S. and Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin, where he spent a year as instructor of pharmacy. We understand that Dr. Jenkins knows the complete process employed by H. J. Heintz in removing warts from pickles, for he was a manager of a pickle factory for four summers. Dr. Jenkins came to the U. of M. in 1928.

For several years Dr. Jenkins has held offices in the A. Ph. A. This year he is chairman of the Ebert Prize Committee, chairman of the section on Education and Legislation, chairman of the Teachers' Conference of the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy, also a member of the committee on the National Formulary.

Dr. Jenkins is at the same time a well respected teacher and an investigator in the field of pharmaceutical chemistry, for he has published several articles in connection with his researches; and with the true spirit of a scientific investigator, he is encouraging research work on the part of students in the pharmacy school. At the present there are four students doing research work under his personal direction. In connection with his work with the graduate students of the school Dr. Jenkins is on the graduate council of the Pharmacy School, which supervises all the graduate work conducted in the school.

THE VANGUARD wishes to express the sentiments of the student body when they extend to Dr. Jenkins their sincere appreciation of his interest in them during his stay at the U. of M., and wish him success in his future work.

Installed at Pharmacy School

The faculty of the School of Pharmacy announces the granting of a charter to the school for the establishment of a chapter of the Rho Chi, national honorary pharmaceutical fraternity. The chapter that is to be installed here will be the Omicron. Twenty-four men have been elected to the fraternity from the members of last year's graduating class and the present Graduate School and faculty. These neophytes are to be initiated later. The names of the present Seniors that have been elected will be announced at graduation. The criteria of eligibility is dependent upon the completion of a required number of semester hours at the university and a general scholastic average of at least 85 during that period of time. The school is to be congratulated upon securing this incentive to better student endeavor. The Student Council originated the idea and through the untiring efforts of Dr. Jenkins and Professor Bauer, the fraternity was made possible.

GOOD WORK

He has what we call real school spirit. Within one week's time he went out and secured thirty subscriptions for extra copies of the Terra Mariae, out of a possible sixty.

Little Landis Curry, whose stage fame started from his successful posing in those clever "That skin you love to touch" advertisements, will this year have the juvenile lead in Al Jolson's "Sonny Boy." Curry is in a field almost to himself, his only possible rival being Davy Lee, of movie fame.

Dern, this year's hero of Louise Alcott's "Little Men" will step out next season to assume the role of Honor Man in the U. of M. Annual Dental Frolic.

Dapper Dutch Fetter, the Junior League, has persuaded to appear in the Revival of "The Barber of Seville." It is rumored that Mr. Fetter's playful attitude in the Prosthetic Department won him this role.

It will be of interest to hear that Peddie, our own Peddie, will have a small part to play in Anderson's new and somewhat forceful play "Orthodontia."

"Rus" Kiker, so we have just learned, will play the lead in this year's newest musical comedy, "The Man About Town."

Dr. Karn, the critic for the Junior League, announces that those who wish to spend an amusing and delightful evening, do not miss the X-Ray Frolic, as Weiner will be seen and heard at his best, in a skit of his own creation, "X-Ray at it's worst."

Sport Saunders, leader of the Lutherville Orchestra, can be heard singing at his Nite Club, or can be heard broadcasting most any old time you tune in, in that new number, "I'm the Great Big Man From the South."

Cline, Drumheller and Dern are so interested in the Junior League that they have taken a studio at Schindell's, where they can discuss and rehearse to their hearts' content, without fear of landladies and the like. That's the spirit boys, that's the spirit.

THE SPECIALIST

In this day and age of low moral and high rate of living, there has come into the limelight the "specialist." Every branch of human science now-a-days has its individual who seeks to carry himself beyond the mediocre.

In the Senior Class, within the past few months there have been some individuals who have earned for themselves the title of "specialist" in a certain department, which is located on the mezzanine floor.

As the inquiring reporter approached the head of that department for an authentic report, the words, "Is Dr. Messore in?" came from a dark haired female (the type a man would notice and exclaim, "What eyes!").

After the interview we came to the conclusion that "Dr. Messore" well deserved the title of head specialist, with "Dr. Wolf" as a running mate. A detailed report would not be complete unless there was included the assistants or runners-up. So after a long and interesting discussion about the prodigies, we found that "Dr. J. W. Smith," the marcelled big man from the south, and "Dr. P. Schwartz," the New Jersey wizard, are the only logical contenders for the "assistant specialist" crowns.

It is hoped that these "doctors" continue their good work as there are plenty of wonderful openings in the Swiss Navy for such men.

MEDICAL SCHOOL STUDENT COUNCIL ORGANIZES

The Student Council is a governing body of the Medical School, organized for the purpose of inter-class problems and matters involving relations between the faculty and the student body.

This organization was founded in 1919, with the support and encouragement of the faculty. It devoted a measure of its time to developing a student book store, to placing a drinking fountain in the entry-way of the main building, and to such intimate details as checking up on faculty attendance at classes.

The Council consists of thirteen members—four from the Senior class, and three each from the lower classes. The president of each class automatically becomes a member. Meetings are held each month throughout the school year, and matters relative to student welfare are discussed.

Last year the Council undertook an ambitious program and met with encouraging response from the faculty and students. An attempt was made to obtain better ventilation in the amphitheatre of the University Hospital; more efficient illumination was requested in the Chemical and Anatomical Halls; an appeal for written questions on all formal examinations was submitted; and a memorial to Dr. Joseph W. Holland was sponsored.

One of the most interesting efforts to which the Student Council devoted its time was the matter of health protection for students. The Council communicated with seventeen medical schools, inquiring what protection was made for student health at the different universities. When the data was obtained, it was submitted to a committee of the Medical Council, who were requested to look into the subject more thoroughly and develop a plan suitable for the conditions at the University of Maryland. Thanks to the loyal cooperation of the faculty, much progress has been made along this line and a method of caring for student health inaugurated this fall. The policy provides medical examination for all Freshmen in the Medical School and a "school doctor" who has office hours for students, is on call in case of emergency, and can arrange for hospitalization.

The Council has been much encouraged by the response to its endeavors and purposes, and looks forward to another year of fruitful activity. The Student Council is counting on your support to develop and maintain the spirit of success among the students of the University of Maryland.

TAKE NOTICE—FRATERNITIES

The Council of Deans requests that each fraternity send to the office of the Registrar a list of officers and membership, the national name, name of local chapter, name of chapter councilor, the school or schools from which membership is eligible, and the location of the house or meeting place.

CONVOCAION!!

Last year's Convocation of students and faculties, held in Ford's Theater on December 17, 1929, was voted a signal success. President Pearson favored a repetition of such mass formation at the same place during the present school year. Therefore, at Ford's Theatre on December 2, at 11 A. M., there will be assembled more than 1,400 students, making up the enrollment in the Baltimore schools, and other hundreds comprising the various faculties. What an inspiring assemblage this will make! What an opportunity to catch and exhibit real University spirit! What a gloriously good time awaits all who will participate!

The sole speaker will be a man of more than local repute. His message is expected to be inspirational in nature; free from religious doctrinizing; stirring in appeal for accomplishment of work in hand and tintured with helpful hints to that end, gained through experience in useful service to his fellowmen. The man of affairs, with broad contacts, whose record for successful achievements in life are acknowledged, is well fitted to inspire the younger generation through timely advice as to procedure in approach to the problems of life and the factors which count in sound development of aspiring youth.

It is hoped that the student body will again attune itself to the occasion, during the first fifteen minutes of the hour, by recourse to popular songs, in which the audience as a unit may join. It is also hoped that all orchestral talent within the schools may be combined and used to enliven the gathering audience and supply the harmony background for resounding vocalization.

The proposed Convocation is meant to give succor to grinding work and provide an opportunity for the student to get some side-lights bearing on his or her undertakings, be such activities in the field of Medicine, Law, Dentistry, Pharmacy or Nursing. In simpler terms, it will be a family gathering for the purpose of instilling confidence, loyalty and institutional solidarity.

SPORTS

From a quiet rumor to a rumbling throughout the building, news of our recently organized Dental School basketball team is heard.

The successful campaigns of former teams in 1926-1927 are soon to be followed up with new victories by the new quintet. Competition is keen and talent plentiful. Regular and diligent practice should produce a team of championship calibre. At our first practice, held at the Jewish Educational Alliance a few weeks ago, there appeared 20 candidates for positions on our varsity quintet. The coaching reins have been taken over by George Solomon, of the Senior class. This arrangement, however, is temporary, until a suitable coach is found.

WELCOME STUDENTS!!

HOPKINS-MARYLAND

Tomorrow, Thanksgiving Day, will bring to Baltimore the football game of the year—the Hopkins-Maryland contest. Thousands of football enthusiasts from every corner of the state will jam into the Stadium to witness a glorious battle for football supremacy.

The game will be a close one. Throughout the year the teams have more than held their own, and tomorrow, keyed to the utmost by enthusiasm, they should display some real football.

We're expecting a large turnout from the Professional School of the University of Maryland in Baltimore. The team has worked hard all year, and deserves our support tomorrow. Tickets may be purchased in each of the schools. Buy several, grab Gertie, pile in the Brill and meet us at the Stadium at 2.30 tomorrow.

ON ENROLLMENT

The registrar reports greater registration this year. Figures from the office show a total of 2,891 students for the combined schools, divided as follows:

Baltimore Schools	1,435
College Park	1,470
	2,905
Duplications	14

Total students in combined schools..... 2,891

At this time last year, November 1, 1929, the enrollment was only 2,726. An increase in the women students is noted, being 36 more than the total of 444 last year, and bringing their present enrollment up to 480.

ATTENTION, CLASS PRESIDENTS!

The Registrar requests a list of all officers in the various classes of each school immediately.

having to choose between two kinds of welcome—one of the future and the other of today. Today we hope you will feel that you are an integral part of the School of Nursing; tomorrow we hope you will aim to the perfect or nearly perfect thing, the highest and best in your work, which has yet to be attained. Our school takes the ground that what we need today are not only a few especially educated and skilled women who can produce unusually high standards, but an output of students who can meet, in some reasonable and adequate way, the varied needs of everyone. This aim should not seem remote or unobtainable, and should be not only within the range of our vision, but within our practical realization.

DEANS WELCOME OLD AND NEWCOMERS

PRESIDENT PEARSON GREETES MARYLAND STUDENTS

In Baltimore and in College Park the new year of the University of Maryland is making a good start.

We are glad to see our old friends who have returned, and we extend a special greeting to the new ones. We are thankful for the new Dental and Pharmacy building and the enlarged equipment, but we are most thankful for the good records being made by our alumni. It is our highest ambition that, with the better teaching facilities and enlarged and stronger faculty and the carefully selected student body, the number of notable alumni records in future years will be greatly increased.

RAYMOND A. PEARSON,
President.

The School of Dentistry, University of Maryland, extends greetings to all students of the Baltimore schools. We have been pleased to welcome back for the session 1930-1931 classes enrolled last year, with very few losses. In addition, we have enrolled a fine group of Freshmen, numbering ninety-seven. Work started off in splendid fashion, which indicates a most successful year. It is worthy of note that this, the beginning of the ninetieth annual session of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery, marks its first announcement of a Class "A" rating.

J. BEN ROBINSON,
Dean.

To all its students, those newly enrolled and those returning for the further pursuit of studies already begun, the Law School extends its welcome and best wishes for success in the study of their chosen profession. Upon them rests primarily the responsibility of justifying the higher standards to which the school has committed itself; the Law School authorities feel confident that they will acquit themselves worthily in the discharge of this trust.

ROGER HOWELL,
Assistant Dean, Law School.

The School of Pharmacy begins the eighty-ninth year of its existence in its new building. Two hundred and forty of the old students have returned, and one hundred and fifteen new ones have begun their work. We greet you all, old and new, most heartily, and solicit your cooperation in making this year, so auspiciously begun, a happy as well as a most profitable one.

Dean.

PROGRESS!

For the first time the Law School began the current school year as a Class A school—the rating toward which it has been working for several years, and in order to attain which far-reaching and fundamental changes have been made in its entrance requirements, equipment and curriculum. Its success in obtaining this rating was reflected in the largest entering class since the institution of two years of pre-legal college work as an entrance requirement. It was reflected also in a very marked increase in the pride of the students in their institution and in a much stronger student morale from every standpoint. The law school students have come to realize the fact that law is a profession demanding constant study and endeavor, and that adequate preparation is an essential to success in practice. They have come to realize also that such adequate preparation means hard and unrelenting work on their part, and to take pride in attending an institution which demands this from them.

Construction work on the new Law School building was begun shortly before the opening of the school year, and is progressing rapidly. All indications point to the School's being able to move into its new quarters before the end of the school year. The new building will house the Law School completely and adequately, and, in doing so, will fulfill a long-felt need and enable the School to continue with its plans for further improvement and development. It will, when completed, contain sufficient classrooms for all classes, faculty offices, lounge and locker rooms for students, a practice courtroom, a large general assembly room, library reading room, and stack-space for the law library providing room for increases over many years. In all respects it will be thoroughly modern and up-to-date, and a building in which all those connected with the School may take a justifiable pride.

Some changes have taken place on the faculty. During the past year the School lost two of its most valuable full-time professors through the death of Professor R. E. Christian and the leaving of Professor R. H. Freeman, who had been Assistant Dean since 1922, and under whose guidance the School had made the transition from an institution of low entrance requirements and scholastic rating to a Class A school. Professor Roger Howell has taken over the duties of Assistant Dean, and will continue to give the courses in Constitutional Law, Equity and Equity Procedure.

New additions to the full-time faculty this year are Professors A. J. Casner, A.B., LL.B., and G. K. Reiblich, A.B., Ph.D., J.D. Professor Casner comes here from the faculty of the University of Illinois Law School, and will give courses in Personal Property, Real Property and Partnership. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois, and as a student was chairman of the Board of Editors of the Illinois Law Review, one of the leading legal periodicals in this country. He is a member of the honorary legal fraternity of the Order of the Coif, of the honorary debating fraternity of Delta Sigma Rho, and of Sigma Chi and Phi Delta Phi fraternities. He is also a member of the Illinois bar, and has contributed various articles to legal periodicals.

Professor Reiblich is a graduate of Johns Hopkins University and New York University, and for the past two years has been a member of the faculty at the latter institution. He is also a former student of the University of Maryland, having taken part of his law studies at this institution. He will give courses in Criminal Law, Conflict of Laws, Public Utilities, Sales and Evidence. He is a member of the honorary fraternity of Phi Beta Kappa and of Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity. He is also a member of the New York bar, and is the author of "A Study of Judicial Administration in Maryland."

Mr. Charles G. Page, A.B., LL.B., of the Baltimore bar, has also been added to the part-time faculty, and will give courses in Suretyship and Mortgages to the Day School.

GRADE A

During the latter part of last semester our Dental School was visited by representatives of the American Dental Educational Council. As a result of their visit, the school was given a rating of Grade A. This rating means that the Dental School has not only an approved curriculum and all the "last words" in modern dental equipment, but also a faculty of the highest rank.

The men who graduate from this institution of dental science are better equipped in all respects than ever before to practice their profession. We of the present undergraduate body have automatically taken on the burden of a greater responsibility. We must endeavor to maintain a scholastic standing worthy of our school's rating.

We should feel greatly indebted to those who have done so much to make possible our present excellent organization, and should strive to support the standard which is their notable achievement by offering a higher quality of effort, by exhibiting a more vital interest in all phases of the school's work. By our activities rather than by our words shall we extend our tribute of praise to Dean Robinson and to those whose untiring efforts have brought to realization the dreams of Hayden and Harris.

MEDICAL-LAW LIBRARY

That old church building on the southeast corner of the University campus is Davidge Hall, wherein is housed the medical and law libraries. Prior to the construction of the new Dental and Pharmacy Building, tomes and periodicals pertaining to the dental and pharmaceutical profession were also on the shelves of Davidge Hall, or University Library, as it was called. The library, which today contains about 3,500 volumes, a file of about 100 current professional journals, and several thousand pamphlets and reprints, was founded in a modest way more than a hundred years ago. In 1813, one year after the organization of the College of Medicine of Maryland, the Faculty of Physic purchased a collection of 500 books belonging to the estate of Dr. John Crawford. The books were stacked in a room opposite the dean's office in the medical building and formed the library for the students and faculty. From time to time the bibliotek would be replenished by gifts of books and periodicals from alumni. Until recent years the growth and development of the medical library was slow because of its dependence on voluntary gifts, and because of financial constraint. Today, however, purse strings having been unloosened, we are supplied with an enviable stock of medical material. Our medical reference library now has available complete sets of many journals, latest works on medicine and surgery, and latest editions of textbooks. Last summer the medical library committee (Dr. Wylie N. Winslow, Lockard), spent $2,500 for new acquisitions. A modern art metal journal rack, holding 72 subscribed current periodicals, has replaced the old cumbersome journal table. In memory of the late Dr. Joseph W. Holland, the medical students have established a memorial section in the library. Books purchased from the funds subscribed will be forthcoming.

The law library, so important a department of the Law School, began with a small number of volumes in 1874, the Faculty then realizing the need of such help. In the early days, there were two librarians, who were appointed annually from the students attending the school, and who were entitled to free tuition as compensation. They alternated in service, the hours being from 10 A. M. to 10.30 P. M. The growth of the law library has been rapid, especially in recent years, when the curriculum and standards have been changed to meet the requirements of the American Law School Association. Davidge Hall now contains, in addition to full Maryland, Massachusetts, New York and Federal Court reports, the entire National Reporter System, covering all States of the Union. There are also English Common Law and Equity Reports and all available digest and encyclopedic works. There are thousands of carefully selected text and case books upon subjects embraced in the law courses. The alumni are taking an interest in the library, and consequently numerous gifts of textbooks and reports have lately been received. This year the library will undoubtedly receive an "A" rating by the Association for its present equipment of legal material.

Davidge Hall is open at 9 A. M. each morning but Sunday; and is closed at 10.30 P. M. each evening but Saturday, when it closes at 5 P. M. Mrs. Ruth Lee Briscoe is the librarian and Samuel H. Feldstein, her assistant. The night assistant librarians are Palmer Nickerson and William S. Wilson.

Plans are now under way for a "Smoker," in order to provide funds for uniforms and equipment. Several men, well reputed in fistic, wrestling and other sporting endeavors, have promised to appear in various exhibitions of athletic skill. Entertainers from the various theatres of the city have also promised their aid.

Among the candidates out for the team we find former prep school and college luminaries, among whom are "Bookie" Buchbinder, Bayonne High School; Joe Santillo, of Newark Central High School; Speed Guth, former Perth Amboy football and basketball luminary; Bob Applegate, South River Prep and Blair Academy, all-state star; James Carbone, Demarest High School; Herb "Stretch" Margolies, Emerson High School and Washington Square College representative; Jesse Englander, Bridgeport High School; Reggie Cline, Syracuse U.; Cliff Schwartz, Colby Prep; George Solomon, New York University; Kosics, Loyola; and many other promising candidates.

A schedule is now being arranged by Rusty Rostov, '31, and games with the Frosh and the Jayvee teams of Johns Hopkins, Loyola, Georgetown, Maryland State Normal of Towson, University of Baltimore, and many other teams in the state are being included.

The boys are surely making that ball talk in practice, and we have every reason in the world to believe that a successful season is ahead of us.

Any new candidates can obtain information regarding practices and so forth from George Solomon any day on the clinic floor.

The vicinity at Lombard and Greene Streets is now Grade A in Toto. Our Medical School is of the highest type, our Pharmacy School is among the finest in the country, the Nurses' School is of the best, and our Dental School is of No. A rank. However, let us not be content with this height of progress, but rather let us seek the proverbial "Peak of Perfection" in all the fields which our schools represent.

THE VANGUARD takes this opportunity to welcome both new and old students. We wish the students to know that this periodic publication is the official organ of the professional schools of the University of Maryland in Baltimore. It is open for comments and contributions by any student. THE VANGUARD depends upon your interest to fill its columns. Let each class and fraternity make it a point to use THE VANGUARD in each issue. The more communications the better—jokes, news, announcements solicited. See your school editor.

On Friday, October 24th, Psi Omega Fraternity held its annual Hallowe'en dance at the house, 1111 St. Paul Street. The affair was a very colorful and enjoyable one and was well attended, both by active members and alumni of Psi Omega.

Music was furnished by Earl Simpson and his orchestra and the following acted as patrons and patronesses, Dr. and Mrs. O. H. Gaver, Dr. and Mrs. J. Ben Robinson, and Dr. and Mrs. Horace M. Davis.

The next dance of the fraternity is to be held on Thanksgiving night after the Maryland-Hopkins football game.

Sigma Epsilon Delta

The Epsilon chapter of the Sigma Epsilon Delta dental fraternity wishes to extend a cordial welcome to all men who have decided to make dentistry their life work and have chosen the University of Maryland Dental School as the institution to prepare them for their profession. We are more than happy to assist the freshmen in any matters that they may be in doubt about. Our knowledge of school routine and Baltimore City will be gladly passed on to the incoming class for the asking.

Sigma Epsilon Delta, in its brief existence in Baltimore has accomplished as much as its most optimistic follower ever dreamed it would. It has secured a house, enjoyed several very good social affairs, and established an unbeatable record last year scholastically in which none of its members found it necessary to leave school or repeat the year.

In keeping with S. E. D.'s new policy of giving the freshmen a chance to associate with everyone at school and giving S. E. D. a chance to associate with the freshmen, we have decided to postpone our annual smoker and rushing period until after midyear examinations.

In the near future S. E. D. intends to have some of their graduates to lecture and hold clinics in this city on various dental subjects. Such men as A. Berger, Theodore Blum, Chayes, Weinberger, etc., will be on the program. Members of the faculty will be invited.

Visit us at 1909 Eutaw Place and let us become better acquainted, freshmen!

Xi Psi Phi

The Zips are starting off this year with a big bang. They seemed to be very anxious to work and full of vigor. The proverb "Absence makes the heart grow fonder" certainly proved to be true in our case. Everyone is glad to be back at school with his brothers.

On October 31 thirteen new men were initiated into our ranks and a banquet in their honor was given at the Emerson Hotel. A good number of our brothers in faculty were present.

Conforming with the new rules of the school our annual smoker and rush period will be postponed until after the mid-year exams.

Our first social event of the year was held last night at the Blue Room of the Alcazar. Brother Black, master of ceremonies, was aided by Bob Lula and his orchestra in making the affair a success.

Adieu, fellows, until the next issue.

Phi Alpha

Phi Alpha has begun a year of unprecedented activity. On September 28, Beta Chapter of the University of Maryland ushered in the social season with a dance at the Lord Baltimore Hotel. At this affair we were honored by a large attendance from out-of-town chapters.

On Sunday October 5 our chapter attended a house dance tendered by our chapters in Washington. The warm glow of fraternalism that was experienced by every man at these two affairs presages a year that will surpass all others in the growth of our fraternity. Two days later we held our first smoker of the year at our new house, 3020 N. Calvert St. After hearing several speeches, including that of Supreme Grand Regent, Irving B. Brandberg, the boys "fell to" the food with a vengeance.

Completing the first round of the year's social activities, a number of us drove out to College Park on October 18 to be present at the formal opening of Epsilon's new colonial home.

Last year the records of the National Interfraternity Conference show that the Phi Alpha Fraternity led all other fraternities in the United States in scholarship, and our chief aim this year is to take the prize again. Although our annual convention in Boston is two months off, it is a favorite topic of discussion at our meetings. All indications point to our having a "sweet time at Phi Alpha's Sixteenth Convention."

EDITOR'S NOTE—In each issue this column will report returns of the Class Officers' and other elections.

SNYDER-ESKIN TRIUMPH AGAIN

The most important undertaking of scholastic early semester activities is the class elections of officers for the year. For this purpose the Senior Class called its first meeting on October 14, 1930. E. Snyder, president for the preceding three years and A. C. Eskin, vice-president for the past three years, seemed to have impressed the class with their capabilities in handling their respective officers to such an extent that they found it advisable to reelect them—hence E. Snyder will serve as Senior president and A. C. Eskin, as Senior vice-president. G. Lewis, who had previously held the secretarial office for one term, was again voted the privilege of serving the class as secretary. E. Margerani succeeds A. Lamesha as treasurer, and A. Gilfoyle, after official inactivity for one year will again perform the duties of sergeant-at-arms.

HENRY E. ROSTOV, *HistorianJunior Dental Class

The opening day of school found the Junior Class of the Dental School literally "on its toes" in anticipation of the work of the coming year.

The past year proved a very successful one for us, for we lost very few men, thus continuing the very high scholastic standard that we have set, as a class, during our previous years.

The Junior Class recently held its election of class officers for the coming year and again chose George Groshans to lead the class. The officers elected were:

President.....George Groshans
Vice-President.....Nathan Frankel
Secretary.....Donald Farrington
Treasurer.....Merrill Hills
Sergeant-at-arms.....

Historian.....Harland Lott

The class looks forward to a banner year, clinically and theoretically, thankful that the leadership of the class is in the hands of such capable men.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The student body of the dental school considers it an honor to be able to announce that

DR. HARRY E. LATCHAM
Sioux City, Ia.

Practicing dentistry about twenty years. One of the most prominent dentists of the middle west. Student and teacher in the Woodbury Dental Study Club; lecturer and clinician before various dental organizations; active in dental organization work in the State of Iowa; Editor for a number of years of the Iowa State Dental Association Bulletin. Comes to the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery as full time Assistant Professor of Operative Dentistry.

The Gorgas Odontological Society

The Gorgas Odontological Society was organized in 1914 as an honorary student dental society with scholarship as a basis for admission. The society is named after Dr. Ferdinand J. S. Gorgas, a pioneer in dental education, a teacher of many years experience, and during his life a great contributor to dental literature. It was with the idea of perpetuating his name that the society adopted it.

Students become eligible for membership at the beginning of their Junior year in the dental school, if, during their preceding years, they have attained an average of 85 per cent. or more in all of their studies, but personal attributes are also considered. Meetings are held once each month and are addressed by prominent dental and medical men, an effort being made to obtain speakers not connected with the University. In this way, the members have an opportunity, even while students, to hear men associated with other educational institutions.

MEDICAL SCHOOL NOTES

Christmas vacation over — new resolutions, sobered with the thoughts that no studying was done during the vacation in spite of pre-holiday determination to the contrary; and the wise remarks of upperclassmen, "I told you so"; the men returned with some holiday inertia; however, with renewed ambition for serious endeavor. So, commences 1931 with a great temptation on my part to bemoan the apparent fate of the Terra Mariae. It was during the latter part of the nineteenth century that the Terra Mariae was first published, at that time its title being, "Bones, Molars and Briefs." (In your spare moments ask Mrs. Mrs. Briscoe to allow you to look through a copy—it is quite entertaining). Of course, the medical school played a prominent and conspicuous part in its development and success. And now, distressing to relate the school by order of the student council is withdrawing all support so badly needed and recommends, "that all connections with the Terra Mariae be severed"; in view of the fact that this year's business manager and next year's editor-in-chief are medical students. In my opinion, there are two major causes why this action is regrettable; firstly, as a photographic and historical record the book is invaluable both for the administrative officers as well as the students; secondly, an album for the individual students with the sentiments are associates with a volume of this type. Perhaps my attitude is prejudicial or sentimental, nevertheless, personally it would mean a great deal to me to have a pictorial record of the men with whom I associated while getting my M.D., faculty men and classmates both.

At this writing the University of Maryland Biological faculty has held two interesting meetings. I sincerely hope that more are to follow. May I be a bit presumptuous to suggest the possibility of holding the meetings at night to which students and faculty men of all of the University of Maryland professional schools are invited?

Another pertinent suggestion in reference to all class elections. It is well known that fraternity caucuses decide the outcome of all elections. In order to save time as well as remove antipathies existing between fraternities, I would suggest the appointment of a representative from each fraternity at the school to act as an elector. This representative body would function for the welfare of the student body and elect men meritoriously capable of holding office. I believe this idea merits unbiased consideration.

The presidents of the upper classes would do well to imitate the judicious management of freshmen class affairs by affable, blond-headed "Bill" Fearing, well-liked freshman president.

A Probationer's First Impressions

Amid the hustles of this busy city, we arrived with enthusiasm and bewilderment at our anticipated destination—one of the best hospitals in the East. It was with great eagerness that we beheld our future home, where many long before had trod the paths of service for the good of humanity. Upon observation of the building and its surroundings, better motives were imprinted in our hearts, enabling us to aspire to bigger and better things in our future profession.

The home-like atmosphere and a cordial welcome helped to take away any feeling of loneliness; and later, upon entering our rooms, we were impressed with the same atmosphere.

It was with great pleasure that we accepted the desire for systematic order and obedience as prescribed by the teachers and authorities. Their leniency, as compared with other authorities, proved less severe than expected. The noiseless halls, punctuality to meals, and the atmosphere of cheerfulness led us to follow in the footsteps of upperclassmen.

With eagerness we partake of balanced, well-cooked meals. The varieties of food make them appetizing, and we often desire to see the next menu before the meal is prepared.

The classrooms, providing plenty of light, sun and air, enable us to think and recite fluently. It was with difficulty that we accepted so many unfamiliar subjects, but the lectures promoted interest and enthusiasm in our work.

The dear old upper-classmen of '30 spread a friendly, cheerful, courteous influence, as though we had known them long ago, and helped us to enter into the spirit of our work.

Our later knowledge of this Monumental City teaches us its attractiveness. The churches, inviting parks, and interesting shopping centers promote happiness and help supply our spiritual and material needs.

Our stay at the nurses' home and our work while here have benefited us to the extent that we aspire higher each day to fulfill further duties and to reach that goal which leads to happiness and success.

MARYLAND DENT QUINT DEFEATS LOYOLA

The U. of M. Dental School basketball team inaugurated its season December 16th with a victory over Loyola College Frosh. The game was a thrilling and hard fought one from the blowing of the open whistle to the close of the game. The score at the end of the first half was Loyola 17-Dental 16. However, with the aid of our "shock" troops the table was turned and a final score of Maryland 26, Loyola 23, was the outcome.

The game was featured by the fact that U. of M. had no outstanding player, every member of the squad proved a scoring factor.

With the score 24-23 in Maryland's favor, with a minute to play, Guth broke away from the field and put in the final basket to clinch the game.

A return game will be played Friday, January 16th at 7.30 at Evergreen, Loyola College. Come out and support that team, you embryo dentists!

By the way, our Faculty Advisor, Dr. Dave Danforth, was the most ardent rooter in the stand.

This column, in its limited extent, is conducted primarily as a means of expression. Naturally, I invite criticism and comments in order that we may "thrash things out together" for mutual advantage. Address this column, care of the VANGUARD, Dental School.

DENTAL PHARMACY LIBRARY

The Dental and Pharmacy Library celebrates its fourth birthday anniversary. Four years ago there were less than 2,000 books; today there are 6,000. In the school year of 1926 we had a circulation of 505 books and journals; this past school year the circulation was 3,532. Nevertheless, with this great increase in circulation, the increase in overdue fines has been less than $3.00, which is excellent proof of the improvement in the student's consideration for his fellow-students.

The library bulletin boards have come in for quite a bit of attention, as articles of interest to pharmacists have been posted on one and those of interest to dentists on the other. At the beginning of school the pharmacy bulletin board quite appropriately presented scenes of early pharmacies from 1450 to 1710 A.D. and the announcement of the presentation by Dr. E. G. Eberle to Dr. Hein, a former graduate of our school and now the president of the Texas Pharmaceutical Association, of a gavel made of Spanish mahogany from the newest post of the old Maryland College of Pharmacy.

The "query file" of each school is growing rapidly as new questions are presented. Most of the instructors have co-operated with the library in making, in advance, lists of references to be used during the coming year and thus promoting the efficiency of the library. The success of the library depends equally upon the student, the faculty and the librarian.

There will be reserved in each issue of the VANGUARD a space for the library for items of interest to the students.

ONE UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND

The present relations between "University of Maryland in Baltimore" and the "University of Maryland in College Park," indicate very markedly, and regrettably, a lack of coördination, a lack of coöperation, which are of vital influence in militating against the best interests of what should be a University of Maryland with branches, or schools, forming a definite correlating body under one head, the President. We of the Baltimore division of our University feel very keenly the value of any move, any plan, which would point towards bringing the two divisions of the University into a much closer relationship than the nominal one which exists at this time. We wish to express also our disgust at the present situation, our feeling that the men responsible for our welfare, to whom we look for leadership, at both College Park and Baltimore, have neglected the vital matter of bringing the Baltimore and College Park units into a definite and practical, rather than a nominal, inefficacious, relationship with each other, to the great profit of all who attend the University.

ON REGISTRATION

Alluding to the notice of registration on the first page, the student body feels that the office of the registrar has been very considerate in allowing them to pay their tuition fee at such a convenient time. This new plan has eliminated the waiting-in-line-for-hours business which heretofore has cost the entire student body much loss of time. It is hoped that the students will take advantage of this privilege and have their money in before the date set for the deadline. Please reserve five or ten minutes of your time one of these coming days to dispense with this transaction.

WHY NOT A DENTAL STUDENT COUNCIL?

The Dental School needs a student council. A few have shown sufficient interest to offer their time and energy for the establishing of just such an organization, but—the student body, to the last member, must lend his or her support. Lethargy seems to have been responsible for the fact that the Dental School has no student council at present. Just why this factor should creep in to prevent a real effort for a council is hard to realize.

Benefits derived would multiply with the increasing efficiency of the organization. Such an organization would act as an official representative of the student body before the faculty and in any extra-curricular activities undertaken by the student body. Through it would pass faculty and office notices effecting the student body. Then in turn there would be open a way to carry student suggestions, apparent needs and dissatisfactions to the faculty.

Talk it up, students! Show that you are interested in yourselves and your school affairs. Make it known to your class presidents that are in accord with such a plan. If concerted interest is manifested by the students plans for organization could be drawn up to become effective next fall if not earlier.

A suggestion for membership would be seven which is not unwieldy to efficient handling of the business which would come before it. Four members would automatically be elected by their position as presidents of the four upper classes. The other three would come one from each of the three upper classes elected at the time of class elections. The freshman class being without a president until second semester would be represented by their advisor, the president of the senior class. The freshman president might be allowed to sit in without vote after his election.

Remember that in order for a student council to work it must have faculty recognition. Such recognition will come only after a concerted drive by all the students for an organization which must have earnest and competent workers in control.

TALK IT UP, STUDENTS!! IT'S UP TO YOU!!

NOTES

Believe it or not, Lindberg is due for an immediate rival for flying honors in the form of "Eagle" Solomon. His most recent achievement in aeronautics has been a second flight from Baltimore to New York. Watch out, Lindy!!!

We learn from the extraction clinic of the Dental School of the existence of two outstanding extraction specialists who were heretofore unheard of. Combining altruism with their knowledge of dentistry, Drs. Barnes and Dillon often find it necessary at various intervals to check up on the instructors in charge of the department.

Since the last issue of the VANGUARD Professors Robinson, Davis and Patterson have been down through North Carolina, South Carolina and West Virginia giving clinics in their special subjects. The fact that prominent members of our faculty have been invited down south shows that the Dental School is getting widespread recognition because of its teaching abilities and materials to give a clinic.

The entire faculty and student body of the Dental School join hands in awaiting anxiously the return of Miss Toomey. We are happy to state at this time that Miss Toomey is doing fine after her recent illness, and if her immediate recovery now depends upon the wishes of the students and faculty, she will be back in the very near future.

The VANGUARD takes this opportunity to wish success to all the students in the professional schools of the University of Maryland in their mid-year examinations.

Alpaca Pyles is not a pathologic condition—ask "Bob" Manuel—he wears one!

Our recent Convocation held last month was voted most unanimously a success by the entire student body. A better speaker, other than Rev. McAllister could not have been obtained. We congratulate Dr. Heatwole and those associated with him in making this friendly gathering such a pleasing affair. May we look forward to more such occasions!

The Gorgas Odontological Society has been very fortunate in the past in having secured such an excellent operator and delightful speaker in Exodontia as Dr. Lucien Brun. The lecture was well attended by students of the infirmary. Gorgas expects to have several more interesting lectures during the next semester and it is hoped that the entire infirmary body will take advantage of their privilege to attend.

"You stole my wife, you horse thief!"

"Did I see you taking a tramp over the hills last Sunday?"
"How insulting! That was Uncle John."

"Is that the bride-to-be?"
"No, that's the tried-to-be."

Ever hear of the ventriloquist who proposed to a girl and accepted?

Lambda Kappa Sigma

The Epsilon chapter of the Lambda Kappa Sigma Sorority is now entering upon its third year at the University of Maryland. The girls feel that this year will be quite as successful as the past two years, if not more so, since there are a number of prospective pledgees in the freshman class. Plans are being made for numerous social activities. The first event given will be a card party, which is to be held the first week in November. We sincerely hope that there will be co-operation from all the schools to help make the card party successful, financially as well as socially.

Sigma Epsilon Delta

The fellows have just returned from a glorious convention in New York and have already acclimated themselves to their studies with the view in mind of repeating another successful mid-year report. Plans are now under way for a formal affair to be held at the main ballroom of the Emerson Hotel on February 23rd. This affair will be preceded by a formal stag banquet at which time the rituals of the fraternity will be presented to several pledges. S. E. D. takes this opportunity to wish all their fellow-students much success in the mid-year examinations and a happy New Year.

Xi Psi Omega

The Zips have had their play during vacation time and are now ready to get down to serious work once more. A successful mid-year result is anticipated with much celebration afterward, in the form of a formal affair. The Zips wish all their confrères success in the mid-year exams and a prosperous New Year.

Mistress: "I am not quite satisfied with your references."

Maid: "Neither am I; but they are the best I could get."

She: "Leggo! Leggo!"

He: "Pardon me, I thought it was your arm!"

He: "Don't you think you're wasting your time being a stenographer?"

She: "Oh, no! I've already got a string of pearls from the junior partner."

Youth: "What would you say if I were to throw you a kiss?"

Girl: "I'd say you were the laziest man I ever met."

Small Boy: "What did you marry George for?"

Bride: "Why do you ask?"

Small Boy: "Well, you told me that Albert was the best man."

Floorwalker: "I noticed that your last customer did not buy anything, but he seemed very pleased. What did he want to see?"

Shopgirl: "Me, at eight o'clock!"

Jack: "What is the difference between capital and labor?"

George: "Well, suppose I loaned you five dollars. That is capital."

Jack: "And what is labor?"

George: "Getting it back."

Justice of the Peace: "Well, are you ready to have the knot tied?"

Bridegroom: "Yes—but can't you make it one of those slip-knots?"

FRATERNITIESPsi Omega

Another year passes by and the members of Psi Omega take this opportunity to extend to the members of the faculty and the student body best wishes for much happiness and prosperity throughout the entire year of 1931.

Preparations are being made for our annual smoker which is to be held on Saturday evening, January 24, 1931. At this affair we expect to meet many of those who have just entered our dental school; and whom Psi Omega hopes have already made themselves quite at home.

Psi Omega's social activities as always have been meeting with great success. On the evening of February 12, 1931, we will hold another of our house dances. An excellent orchestra has been engaged and preparations for a gala evening have been made.

Kappa Psi

Members of Kappa Psi on returning for the scholastic year, were pleasantly surprised by the newly painted front of the house, which gave some indication of the unsparing effort made by the resident members during the summer, to make the interior attractive.

All of the twenty-one active members present agreed that a good job was done and everyone looks forward with keen anticipation to the many dances and frequent social affairs which will be held there during the coming winter.

Several of our out-of-town boys have returned, leaving such corporations as Standard Oil to their own resources. That most of the local men remained in the city during vacation time was readily seen by a walk along North Avenue on any summer evening.

To the great satisfaction of all concerned the Pledge Dance was unusually well attended this year. The pledges, eight in number so far, will be entertained in various ways in the very near future.

Alpha Omega

Zeta Mu Chapter of Alpha Omega is rolling along once more in what will be another banner year.

We greeted our old friends and many of the new arrivals at our early annual smoker, which was a great success. Before the Christmas recess we held an informal dance at our house, to this dance we had as our guests many of the incoming students.

Our Alumni Club which works simultaneously with the undergraduate chapter, had a very interesting program last month. Dr. Ullman, chief surgeon of Sinai Hospital, delivered a paper on "Clinical Observations of Peridental Abscess." This paper was greatly appreciated and taken very comprehensively by our undergrads.

As a last fling we had what we call our "Pre-Examination" dance last Saturday—and may it wasn't a knockout! Ask us! Our Fraternity House is at 1320 Eutaw Place, and we encourage visitors. Please come around!

Phi Kappa Delta

The annual smoker of the Phi Kappa Delta fraternity was held on October 9 at the Southern Hotel, and was a success in every sense of the word. On October 15 the College Park chapter held its smoker at Terrapin Inn, and it was well represented by Baltimore as well as by College Park. But the big affair is yet to come—arrangements are under way for a dance to be held on October 23 by the Baltimore and College Park chapters in conjunction.

The Mu chapter of the Alpha Mu Sigma fraternity held its first smoker at the Esplanade on October 19.

There are twelve men back this year at the various professional schools, and plans are being made for a very successful year. A pledge dance is being planned for Thanksgiving eve at which a large attendance from other chapters is expected.

Phi Delta Tau

The Beta chapter of the Phi Delta Tau fraternity wishes to take this occasion to greet its many friends at school. We need not go into detail about our entry into a new year of activities except to mention that a smoker was held on October 7, and three days later, a dance at Levering Hall, Johns Hopkins University. We are just completing arrangements for a house and have very optimistic hopes for an exceptional future.

Alpha Zeta Omega

The annual smoker of the Alpha Zeta Omega Pharmaceutical Fraternity was held at the Emerson Hotel September 31, 1930. The speakers of the evening were Dr. John C. Krantz, Jr., Theodore R. McKeldin, E. Requardt and A. Paulsan. Plans are going forward for the opening dance of the season, to be held shortly.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND BIOLOGICAL SOCIETY

This society of the University was founded in 1928 by a group of men of the various schools interested in the advancement of biological sciences and who wished to bring about a closer relationship between the various departments of the University. The purpose of the society is to promote and advance the biological sciences and sciences related thereto and to facilitate personal research among the men and women of the University.

During its existence the society has held a number of interesting meetings. In the year 1929-30 the society was addressed by Dr. Boris M. Zawadowski, Head of the Physiological Institute, Sverdlov University, Russia, and many other outstanding scientists. In the past few months the society has been active, and a number of clinical papers have been given at its meetings as well as papers dealing with theoretical investigations in the biological sciences.

These meetings are open to professors and students alike; in fact, the student is urged to attend and avail himself of the excellent information and associations. The meetings are held usually following the four o'clock classes and are therefore at a convenient time for the student. Notices of meetings are posted on the billboards of the Medical School buildings.

The Biological Society has served during its several years of existence to bring in closer co-ordination the members of the College Park group and the Baltimore group of schools who are engaged in research work. This has been done by a regular autumn and spring meeting held at College Park at which time workers from both sections enjoy a joint program of interest.

The existence of this splendid organization at Lombard and Greene should be an object of pride to the students of the Baltimore schools and should have their respect and encouragement. Attendance at its meetings will show not only that the science student is eager to explore the possibilities of research but also will prove to be of benefit to him insofar as his studies are concerned.

The officers of the society for the current year are:

President..... HARVEY BECK
Treasurer..... O. G. HARNE
Secretary..... JOHN C. KRANTZ, JR.
Corresponding Secretary pro tem

EARL S. JOHNSON
Chairman, Program Committee,

MEDICAL NOTES

A word of praise to the Student Council and its able leader, Mr. Shaw, for their excellent work. However, I understand that Dr. Baker, the faculty advisor is leaving. That is truly a loss, for he worked conscientiously and earnestly to improve the conditions under which the student labored. His work in providing hospitalization for every one will be a monument to his untiring efforts.

At Green and Redwood Streets, the new unit of the University of Maryland, Professional Schools, the Law School is nearing completion. It will be a beautiful structure and in harmony with the new Dental-Pharmacy building. I could not help but think of the excellent surroundings—a garage and filling station across the street, a stable adjacent, and a disintegrated structure in the rear. It is beyond my comprehension why the new units are being placed in so disgusting a location. The Dental-Pharmacy School already built, the Law School being built, and the hospital to be built, I hope. Is there some explanation as to why one of the more beautiful sections in Baltimore could not have been selected? A reason given me was that professional schools must be located in the commercial center of a city. However, I see no logic in that interpretation. Surely, it is regrettable that the Free State of Maryland could not have taken more interest in the schools which supply it the majority of its physicians, pharmacists, dentists lawyers, legislators and governors.

THIRD YEAR DANCE, SCHOOL OF PHARMACY

The senior class of the Pharmacy School has been working hard, but its members still find time for a bit of fun—anyone who attended the Senior Dance could easily see that.

The affair was held on December 18th, at the Emerson Hotel, with T. Worth Murphy and his boys furnishing the "heat." Christmas cheer prevailed (for it was the night preceding the Christmas vacation), and a merry time was had by all.

The seniors are now looking forward to graduation and the many festivities which accompany it.

While on the subject of buildings, a word of comment on the rejuvenation of the "Old Dental Building". The renovation was most complete and filled a long-awaited need of the Medical School. The equipment is of the finest and with the exception of the exterior, one might say it was a new building. However, my greatest praise is to Dr. Wylie's bio-chemistry laboratory. His laboratory was always noted for its efficiency in providing excellent working conditions for the student, even under the most handicapped circumstances. But at present in this building, the expectations of any chemistry professor would be surpassed, for I do not believe that an unlimited amount of money and the most capable staff of efficiency experts could have improved this complete and perfect workshop for instruction. I have heard the freshmen say, "It is a pleasure to work there."

There seems to be a tendency toward a change in medical education, most critics claiming the medical course, from completion of high school to practise is too long. Of the grade "A" schools who are taking cognizance of this fact, Duke University is the only one of my knowledge which is offering the four-quarter system in order to save time. Of course, it is too early to definitely state that this plan is successful, for it was inaugurated but last year. However, that the entire problem is gaining importance can be ascertained by the discussions which took place at the Federation of State Medical Boards

THE NEWEST EDIFICE

For months, the corner of Redwood Street and Greene Street has been the center of attraction to all students. Long ago there were rumors that another building belonging to the school was to be constructed on that lot. Then we saw a foundation being laid, and now we see a beautiful structure slowly rising. We can already see the likeness of this building to the two newest. It is an object of great joy in every students' heart to see the vicinity in which he spends his whole day becoming a center of beauty. For every one speaks of the beauty of our dental and pharmacy schools. Students, look on with envy the Law School is rising to heights of beauty never before attained.

LAW NOTES

Since the last issue of the VANGUARD the Law School has made still further progress in its successful efforts to obtain the highest possible institutional rating in its field, when it was admitted to membership in the Association of American Law Schools at the annual meeting of that organization held December 29, 1930, in Chicago. This Association was organized in 1900 for the purpose of improving legal education and at the present time has 74 member schools, including all the leading law schools in the country. Membership in it is dependent upon meeting and maintaining certain standards as to entrance requirements, curriculum, faculty, etc., prescribed by the Association. Attaining to membership by the University of Maryland means that Maryland now has a Law School which merits the approval of the leading law schools in the country, and is a tremendous advance in the prestige of the University and the Law School in United States educational circles. Coming so soon after the school's recognition as a Class A school by the American Bar Association, which rating was secured in 1929, the admission to membership in the Law School Association is a further indication of the good work being done at the Law School in maintaining and steadily advancing its standards.

The Law School was represented at the Chicago meeting by Assistant Dean Roger Howell and Professor A. James Casner.

Other Law School news includes plans, not yet fully matured, for the formation of a Students' Council. It is expected that a meeting of representatives from the various classes will be called shortly to discuss this matter and draw up definite plans for its organization.

DENTAL LECTURES

Following the practise of the past few years the Orthodontia Department brought before the combined Senior and Junior classes on February 16 one of the foremost Orthodontists of this country. Dr. Delmar of Boston will not soon be forgotten for his clear and authoritative lecture on the "Growth and Development of the Oral Arches". We hope to hear more lectures of this type soon.

The Gorgas Society presented to its members and invited guests Dr. A. Y. Russell on February 19. He took as his topic "Radiographic Interpretation" and illustrated his talk with slides.

A REPLY TO COLLEGE PARK

In an editorial in the last issue of the VANGUARD, we gave expression to our opinion on the subject of the nominal relationship which characterizes the present connections between the College Park and the Baltimore branches of the University. The student weekly at College Park, The Diamond Back, quoted the VANGUARD editorial verbatim and expressed its hearty sympathy with our attitude therein voiced. The College Park editorial said: "We certainly would favor a closer union between the two branches; but when it comes to suggesting methods of strengthening the relations we are quite at a loss to offer anything constructive." Taking the buck in our hands, we proceed to offer something constructive.

1. A closer relationship between the branches could be brought about through the establishment of periodic conferences between the men who are responsible for the conduct of student publications. These conferences would afford an opportunity for the airing of opinions on problems which effect the relations between the branches of the University. The result would be a joint effort at uncovering and attempting to solve the question of unity, which now is but a vague item of discussion between us.

2. During the weeks of the football season which precede the homecoming game, and the games to be played in Baltimore, an arrangement could be effected between the schools for a Baltimore school rally to which College Park would send speakers, including Coach Byrd and the captain of the eleven. Rallies for the Baltimore schools could also be held to interest the students in basketball and lacrosse contests. Let College Park think of us as being Maryland students who are also represented by the teams emanating from College Park, and who should be given a full chance to express their interest in and support of those teams.

THE LAST CHANCE!

THE VANGUARD is supposed to be your paper; why not really make it yours? This is a plea for coöperation. You have the advantage of reading: A paper without cost, the events of interest to the entire student body, and articles that are interesting and educational. We have been fortunate in receiving vivid and vital articles from several professors and deans; the various fraternities have helped our paper by inserting their activities; and certain coöperative students have been kind enough to hand in the few articles that have appeared in THE VANGUARD so far. Here I want to take the opportunity to thank those who have been so eager and helpful so as to make THE VANGUARD a paper to look forward to read; and a constructive one at that.

But we are not satisfied; the coöperation is not intense enough, and the eagerness is not wide-spread enough. There are many students who have constructive thoughts and ideas, and who are also capable enough in expressing themselves clearly on paper so as to enlighten others.

The next issue is our last publication. We want more enthusiasm, and more articles as the result. Surely, there are interesting and exciting things happening all the time; let us hear and enjoy them. And certainly there are many suggestions to be made; hand them in. Let our last publication be a great stride towards a successful goal!

The marriage of today includes "to have" but excludes "to hold."

Our state universities are losing sight of the fact that they were established to serve the people by training a selected group of men and women. The idea of giving all high school graduates an opportunity to expose themselves to the "higher education" militates vitally against the original standard of selection.

To achieve an ideal requires courage. Consider the man who acquires his ideal of womanhood—then appreciate the value of the married man.

PHARMACY NEWS

The Student Council of the School of Pharmacy of the University of Maryland was organized in the spring of 1926 for the purposes set forth in the preamble of the constitution which reads:

We, the students of the School of Pharmacy of the University of Maryland, in order to supervise in a general way the social and extra-curricular affairs of the student body, and to foster and encourage such class spirit as will reflect with honor on the splendid traditions of the University, do hereby establish this constitution as a basis by which the Student Council hereafter is to be governed.

At that time, the dean, Dr. Andrew G. DuMez, selected a number of students, and met with them in order to consider the advisability of such an organization. The motion was carried and the dean appointed John C. Bauer as chairman of the body; but the council was not able to function without a constitution. Toward this end, the following year was spent, with the result that the constitution was produced, approved by the dean, and put into effect. The functions of the Student Council have increased so much in the past few years that today it plays a most important part in the activities of the school. The greater part of the progress of the council must be credited to the efforts of Professor John C. Bauer, who has acted in the capacity of faculty adviser since 1927.

The process of selecting the men to serve on the Student Council is as follows: Three students from the freshman class are appointed by the dean to serve until April, at which time an election is held. The three students thus elected serve until they graduate; thus there are three men from each class, the three class presidents who are members ex-officio, and the faculty adviser.

From current rumors, we gather that the Dental School is endeavoring to organize a Student Council, and it is the sincere wish of the writer that the sponsors are successful toward this end.

George Soloman, strong man and athlete of the Dental School, now hobbles to classes daily on crutches. A few weeks ago he was sent in on a game in Wilmington. He was on the floor 30 seconds when, on a sharp turn, he crumbled a la Leon Errol. Herb Margolies, giant center man on the double bicuspid five, rendered Soloman first aid.

Sol Bratman, barker in Mom's Lunch, is gaining eminence in the city as a mastoid of ceremonies in professional entertainment circles.

The University Inn, under the guidance of Mr. and Mrs. Hymie Schunick, restaurateurs, has become popular as a university rendezvous during meal times.

NOTES

The good old ship Terra Mariae is out for a rough voyage this trip. After setting sail into 1931, the medical corps did the abandoning act, leaving admiral-elect Jacobson behind. He is lending his aid to the dental commander, and his pharmaceutical, nursing and legal staff. How times have changed! In 1897 the medicos were mainly responsible for the launching of the old "Bones, Molars and Briefs." At that time they declared when they issued the first annual that it was "fostered by the new spirit of advancement for the venerable, but hale, institution (our University of Maryland), and for the closer union of her students; the knowledge, we believe, of a laudable desire upon the part of her sons to glorify and emblazon the deeds of their Alma Mater, and to furnish record of some of the amusing happenings connected with student life."

We regret the passing away of another great figure in the history of the University of Maryland and of the medical world—Dr. John C. Hemmeter.

Have you noticed the remarkable conversion of the old Dental School quarters into a modern laboratory building, which adds much to the facilities of the School of Medicine?

Today, the building construction at Redwood and Green Streets is a pleasing sight to the eyes. We have had our doubts. Of course, we did not like the idea of the livery stable located next door. The red brick and granite in the first stages looked ordinary. Now, however, at this stage, we discover its beauty of design. The Law School will look imposing when the new building is finished this spring.

* * *

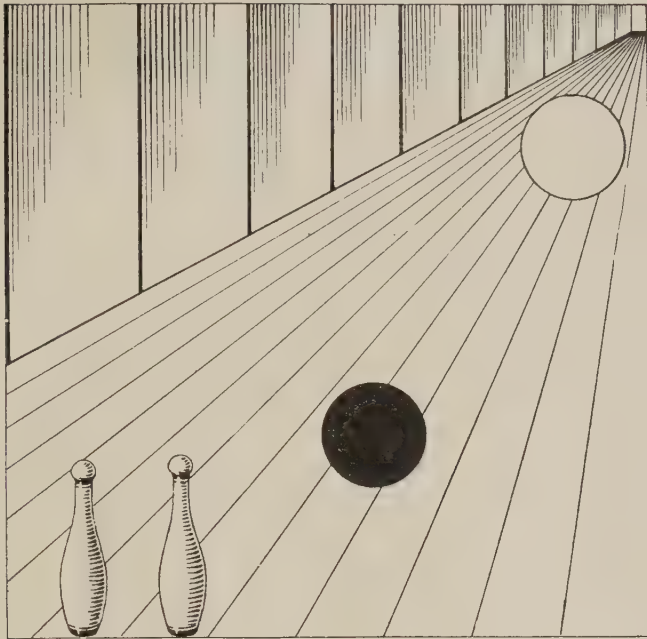

Some contributions have been made to the Dr. Joseph W. Holland Memorial Stack in Davidge Hall. Useful books have been given. There is still room on the shelves for late editions of some of the standard books.

* * *

The Maryland legislature is in session, but we hear of no special legislation this term favorable to the interests of the State University.

Gardner Foley, of the Dental-Pharmacy faculty, displayed excellent histrionic ability in playing the leading role in "The Faith Healer", by Moody, as presented by the Homewood Playshop. S. Vannort Chapman, day Law School student, is also active in amateur dramatics. Last week Chapman addressed the Alliance Players at the Jewish Educational Alliance on the subject of "The Art of Make-Up."

and the American Conference of Hospital Service, at a conference in Chicago.

Dr. Davidson, Dean of Duke University Medical School, stated that at the present time the average high school course is comparable to the college work done in 1893 and that the requirements to entrance in a medical school should be an innate intelligence and a good knowledge of English and mathematics.

Dr. William J. Mayo, of the Mayo Clinic, said that the long period of from two to four years in university or college before beginning the medical course dulls the young student's mind and makes the physician almost thirty years old before he begins practice. As a possible remedy he suggested the four-quarter system, which would save two or more years. "Why should these young people at the strongest period of life continue in the educational system of the grammar school?"

Dr. Mayo made several additional remarks which, because of their interest, I shall repeat. He questioned the wisdom of the prevalent system of examinations. "Unconsciously the instructor uses the degree as a club to compel the student to remember by a cramming process rather than an understanding of the subjects taught," he said.

He also advised early contact with patients; more sympathetic understanding of the emotional suffering of patients, and a period of general practice before entering a special field of medicine.

The University of Maryland Dental School basketball team ended its season on February 24 by defeating Maryland State Normal School Jay Vee's team at Towson by the score of 29-15.

Maryland's team, handicapped considerably this season by difficulty in securing a practice court, finding enough time in which to practice and in its lateness in getting started, fared exceedingly well on the court.

The season opened at Evergreen on December 16, where the team met and defeated Loyola's Frosh by the score of 26-23 after a hard-fought nip and tuck struggle throughout the entire game.

Again on January 17 the team played Loyola's Frosh at Evergreen in the most exciting and interesting game of the season. The game ended in a tie score of 12-12 and an extra period had to be played which resulted in Loyola's victory by the margin of 2 points—15-13.

On February 5, University of Baltimore Jay Vees were played, and we received our worst defeat of the season. The game ended with Baltimore on top by the score of 22-15.

Our game with Maryland State Normal School Jay Vees on February 12 at Towson ended in an easy victory for the Dental School. The score of the game was 37-15.

The primary purpose for the functioning of a basketball team at Dental School this year was to give a number of the students who enjoyed playing basketball previously at high schools and elsewhere the opportunity of continuing their athletic activities at school here. In that respect I think we have succeeded very well. The secondary purpose was to have an official dental school representative team—and in that view the Dental School was represented in a commendable manner.

The members of the squad were: Shulman, Guth, Diani, Martini, Schwartz, Kascis, Margolies, Solomon, Englander and Buchbinder. Dr. Dave Danforth of baseball fame was our faculty advisor. George Solomon was our coach and Joe Koscis captained the quint.

I hope in the forthcoming years that the school continues to find it advisable to support a team and that the succeeding teams meet with successful seasons.

TERRA MARIAE DISTRIBUTION MAY 25th

BOOK TO APPEAR NEXT MONTH

Excellent Annual Planned for Dental, Nursing and Pharmacy Students

The 1931 Terra Mariae the annual sponsored by the Dental, Nursing, and Pharmacy Schools of the University of Maryland, will appear during the latter part of May.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Medical and Law Schools have withdrawn their support from the book the staff has worked hard to surpass the very excellent annual published by the classes last year. It has been a handicap, of course to work without the financial and moral support of the two schools. Hard work, and the insistent refusal of the three remaining schools to become discouraged, now give promise for a real annual.

The book will be smaller than usual. This is because it will contain less pages of graduates. The staff, however has endeavored to replace quantity of pages with quality of material and has attempted to really portray the history of the life at the University during the past year.

An excellent art motif in keeping with the professions, has been planned. The finest in the way of photography, printing, engraving and binding has been purchased in an effort to really offer a quality book.

The sale of copies for the Terra Mariae has been quite extraordinary. The Dental, Nursing, and Pharmacy Schools have given their whole-hearted support to the annual.

As we glance through the proof pages, we are happy that they have co-operated so greatly. They have made possible an excellent year-book, quite representative of the standards set by the Dental, Nursing, and Pharmacy Schools of the University.

DENTAL FACULTY NOTES

The school has been represented at several dental meetings lately among them being one at Providence and another one at Memphis. The first of May Dr. Robinson will be in North Carolina attending another meeting.

Recently Drs. McCarthy and Latchum visited dental schools in metropolitan New York and also the S. S. White factory.

IN MEMORIAM

The Dental School Faculty and Student Body grieves the loss of Dr. George Koshi, beloved teacher, expert in his art, and a dear friend to all who knew him.

In respect to the late Dr. Koshi, all classes and clinics in the Dental School will be closed tomorrow. The entire faculty and student body will attend the funeral services to be held at Cook's Funeral Parlors, St. Paul St. and Preston at eleven o'clock. From there the body will be taken to Loudon Park Crematory where it will be cremated.

Mrs. Koshi and family plan to take the remains to Hawaii, where Dr. Koshi's brother a priest in the Shinto religion will offer funeral services. The last funeral rites will be held in Japan where the family expects to reside permanently.

The active pallbearers will be composed of members of the teaching faculty. Members of the Faculty Council will make up the honorary pallbearers. The student body en masse will act as guard of honor.

Funeral arrangements and executory duties are being taken care of by Dr. Oggeson. Dr. McCarthy and other members of the faculty are assisting him.

DEBATE TEAM LOSES

TO RICHMOND

The debating team of the School of Pharmacy of the University of Maryland went down in defeat at the hands of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science on Friday, April 10. The team, composed of Blumberg, Carr, Moses, and McGinnis, alternate took the affirmative side of the subject, "Resolved, that the chain drug store is detrimental to the public."

On April 17th Elsberg and Moses represented the school in a debate to be held at Richmond against the Medical College of Virginia. Duquesne University was scheduled for April 24th. Professor Foley, coach, is looking forward to these debates with an anxious eye; therefore we expect a pair of victories.

President Elwood Snyder of the Senior Class in the Dental School, takes this opportunity to wish success to the Dental School students in their oncoming examinations.

A NEW HOSPITAL

The need for a new University Hospital has become increasing apparent in the last few years. The present building, while adequate in the beginning, is now crowded and necessarily somewhat out-to-date. Increased demands on its limited capacity to serve both the patients and clinical instruction of the students has finally culminated in organized effort for a new and improved hospital.

Two years ago Governor Ritchie appointed a commission to study the condition of higher education in Maryland, principally the University Hospital. In its report of a few months ago it favorably expressed the urgent need for and recommended an appropriation for a new University Hospital. Their recommendation was for $2,000,000.

The many friends of the hospital and the commission were able to convince Governor Ritchie that there should be immediate action. With his usual regard for worthy causes the Governor did not hesitate to include in his budget an appropriation of $1,500,000 as a nucleus, with further arrangements for an additional $250,000. The remaining $250,000 is to come from popular subscription and will complete the total recommendation of $2,000,000.

Structurally, the building will probably rise 12 stories from a lot of ground in close proximity to the present hospital. Plans tentatively call for a total of 400 beds, 250 of which will be in wards and the remainder of private or semi-private character. The income derived from these remaining 150 beds will be used to help defray general operating expenses. Needless to say, it will be a thoroughly modern hospital in every sense of the word. It will be a worthy addition to our growing Baltimore group. With plans now being considered we look forward to seeing the New University Hospital a reality within the next two years.

Medical Student Council Members Address Premedical Group at College Park

On the 14th of March three members from the Medical School had the privilege of addressing the pre-medical group at College Park. The meeting was held in the Chemical Engineering hall and sponsored by Dr. Broughton, Chairman Pre-medical Committee, and Dean Taliaferro, of the College of Arts and Sciences. President Pearson welcomed the medical school representatives on behalf of the Faculty and undergraduates and extended to them the hospitality of College Park.

J. E. Savage, President of the Junior Class, told the undergraduates about the history of our medical school and the advantages of graduate study in Baltimore. H. S. Shelley, President of the Senior Class, outlined the curriculum in medicine and stressed the clinic facilities and practical training given the student at the University. C. C. Shaw, President of the Student Council, traced the origin of medicine in remote times from its association with priest-craft through the Age of Hippocrates to its present-day professional status and suggested that the pre-medical student aim to develop those qualities of mind and heart which are so essential to success for the young doctor. He warned the students that in beginning the study of medicine they are embarking on a professional career, which demands the utmost devotion in time and energy and concentration. He stressed the point that if a man is not afraid to apply himself conscientiously, the University of Maryland Medical School is the logical place for him to continue his professional studies.

Following the meeting, Dr. Pearson entertained the delegates from the medical school at lunch in the faculty dining room, where an interesting discussion of certain aspects of medical education took place.

Such meetings are a definite forward step toward mutual co-operation and understanding between College Park and the Baltimore Schools and should aid in an appreciation of the aims and problems of our several departments for the better functioning of the whole and for the advancement of our University of Maryland. It is to be hoped that the seed will bear good fruit in due season.

A MESSAGE FROM OUR PRESIDENT

I am glad to notice the interest among the students and faculty members of the University of Maryland, both in Baltimore and College Park, in having a better understanding between these two branches of the University. It has always seemed that everyone was so busy with his own work and in his own circle that there has been very little interest in learning more about the more distant sections of the University, but now the ice is broken, the editors of the VANGUARD and of the Diamond Back have done well to promote a discussion. Representatives of the Medical School have visited College Park with pleasant results. A considerable number of University members in Baltimore attend the athletic contests. When they come to College Park they see the physical plant and the fine spirit that prevails.

Another important development is the efforts of the alumni in some cities. For example: in Cumberland the alumni from both branches of the University join forces in having a dinner at which the welfare of the whole University is considered. The same thing has happened in Washington and at some other points.

A few years ago the entire senior class at College Park and their friends were brought to Baltimore on a special train and the commencement exercises of the two branches were combined in the Fifth Regiment Armory. On that day many people realized for the first time how broad in scope the University of Maryland really is and what a strong institution it is. When the new field house is completed at College Park there will be seating accommodations for an enormous crowd and it may be that a combined commencement can be held there.

I hope the editors of the student papers will continue to keep this subject alive. Often they have published items of interest relating to the other branches of the University. Perhaps the VANGUARD can find more items at College Park which will interest their readers and the Diamond Back might find more items relative to the Baltimore Schools that will interest their readers.

The University of Maryland is a growing institution its standards are high. The faculty and students will do well to learn all they can about it. This will result in a more united institution.

lecture planned by the Orthodontia Department and the two upper classes benefited greatly by his remarks.

The upper two classes were invited by Dr. Aisenberg to attend a lecture at the Maryland Chirurgical Society by Dr. Kline of Hopkins. His slides were the best we have ever seen and his remarks followed by discussion proved to be well worth the time spent.

Shower for Dr. Dorsey; Dr. Fusco Entertains at Bridge (?); Elite Faculty Attend

Saturday, April 11—Dr. and Mrs. Karus, Dr. and Mrs. Deems, Dr. and Mrs. Mott, Dr. and Mrs. Graf-fam, Dr. Dorsey and Miss Mary Claypool were cordially invited to attend the weekly "Bridge" held this evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Fusco. The climax of the evening came when the scene shifted to a shower (not an April shower)—but none less than a surprise "kitchen shower" for our beloved Dr. Dorsey and his fiancée. A bridal bouquet was presented and a boutonniere for the groom-to-be. A variety of games were played among which was the "funnel trick" that featured Dr. Dorsey!

Dr. Fusco offered several delightful selections on the mandolin which especially pleased the lady guests; and May Stokes exhibited a difficult but well-done tap dance.

The evening did not drag for one minute. Plenty of good eats and drinks were served and—lo and behold! the clock struck two! Wearied, Dr. Fusco ordered his guests to leave.

WEDDING BELLS

The announcement of the engagement of Prof. Gardner B. Foley to Miss Agnes Howard has caused quite some excitement and the showering of congratulations. Mr. Foley, of Gloucester, Mass., and formerly professor in English at the University of Mississippi, is instructor in English in the Pharmacy and Dental departments of the University of Maryland. Miss Howard, of this city, is head of the Children's department at the central branch of the Enoch Pratt Library.

The engagement of Dr. E. D. Vanden Bosche to Miss Ruth F. Carr was announced recently. Dr. Vanden Bosche is assistant professor in Chemistry of the Dental and Pharmacy schools, and Miss Carr is assistant in Biological Chemistry of the Medical School of the University of Maryland. The date of the wedding has been set for June 1.

It's no easy matter to pilot a bucking log through white-tipped rapids. It's even harder to pry a Chesterfield smoker loose from his choice. A man wants taste in his cigarette and in Chesterfield he gets it... The better taste of milder and better tobaccos—nothing else! Nothing else is needed... thanks to the "cross-blend," which brings out the aroma and flavor of the tobaccos themselves!

FOR NINETEEN years, our Research Department has kept intimate touch with every new development of Science that could be applied to the manufacture of cigarettes. During this period there has been no development of tested value or importance to the smoker which we have not incorporated into the making of Chesterfield cigarettes.

In the Spring a young man's fancy, etc.; after a Winter during which the old weather man played many pranks on the thermometer—its here at last. Shades of the midnight candle! Spring, the calm before the storm, when texts and notes are languidly shelved, and action directed to the great outdoors, to dismiss the cyclonic dread of examinations for the more pleasant thought of what Spring means . . . ? . . . The fever is in the air.

Gardner Foley, English pro. in Dentistry and Pharmacy, last week addressed the Alliance Players, Baltimore's oldest amateur dramatic organization. His talk on barnstorming dramatics was most interesting and entertaining. Incidentally, in the near future, wedding bells will be ringing out for him. They do make a lovely couple.

We were immeasurably happy to learn that the Legislature has passed Governor Ritchie's recommendation that the general construction loan provide $1,500,000 toward the construction of a new $2,000,000 University Hospital.

A site in the immediate neighborhood will be selected on which a beautiful and modern hospital building accommodating 400 patients and housing teaching facilities. What a sight that will be!

Dreams seem to have come true. The various departments are, or shortly will be, adequately housed. Dentistry and Pharmacy are already long acclimated in their new quarters. Medicine has been further provided for in the remodeled building, formerly occupied by Dentistry. Before the coming Summer is over Law be moved into the very attractive structure now being completed at Redwood and Greene Streets.

Have you noticed? The new legal edifice has its main and most attractive entrance facing south towards the alley way, in the rear of the old medical building. It appears peculiar at this time. Eventually, however, it will be facing the center in a university grouping.

We wonder how the Pharmacy debating team is faring this season. We are told that one of the students on being questioned why he was not successful in "making the team," replied: "The r-r-reason I-I did n-not m-make the d-d-debating t-team is b-because I am too s-short."
